

Module 1

Question Tags

Confirming and Maintaining Conversation

Guide 1 – Question Tags

In Spanish, we often finish a statement with a question when we already know the answer or when we are confirming. For example:

“Tú eres Emile, ¿verdad?”

In English, we call these “question tags”, and they have a very simple pattern. The question tag uses the same auxiliary as the principal statement.

If the statement is affirmative, the tag is negative.

E.g. “We will go tomorrow, won’t* we?”

If the statement is negative, the tag is affirmative.

E.g. “We won’t go tomorrow, will we?”

Note: The question tag almost always uses the contraction (E.g.: will not → won’t).

For “to be”:

“You are sick, aren’t you?”

“You aren’t sick, are you?”

I am very tall, aren’t I? (“Amn’t” does not exist, so we use “aren’t” for “I”)

For the continuous:

“Sam is playing soccer, isn’t he?”

“Sam isn’t playing soccer, is he?”

Also, for the perfect:

“Sam has played soccer, hasn’t he?”

“Sam hasn’t played soccer, has he?”

Sometimes, we omit the auxiliary “do/does/did” in the affirmative. But we use it in the tag.

“Sam plays soccer, doesn’t he?”

“You play soccer, don’t you?”

“Andres played soccer, didn’t he?”

Ejemplos – Question Tags

We can eat lunch, can't we? / We can't eat lunch, can we?
Bella should do her homework, shouldn't she? / Bella shouldn't do her homework, should she?
The girls say hello, don't they? / The girls don't say hello, do they?
Your friend is sick, isn't he? / Your friend isn't sick, is he?
The boys are playing tennis, aren't they? / The boys aren't playing tennis, are they?
You went to school, didn't you? / You didn't go to school, did you?
Mark makes breakfast, doesn't he? / Mark doesn't make breakfast, does he?
You know Santiago, don't you? / You don't know Santiago, do you?
I am working, aren't I? / I am not working, am I?
You can see me, can't you? / You can't see me, can you?
Edith will take a cookie, won't she? / Edith won't take a cookie, will she?
Fabricio came to the school, didn't he? / Fabricio didn't come to the school, did he?
Nely walked in the park, didn't she? / Nely didn't walk in the park, did she?
We should look at Fabiola, shouldn't we? / We shouldn't look at Fabiola, should we?
You can find the dog, can't you? / You can't find the dog, can you?
You could give him money, couldn't you? / You couldn't give him money, could you?
You would tell me, wouldn't you? / You wouldn't tell me, would you?
We are going to call Mom, aren't we? / We aren't going to call mom, are we?
You'll try the fish, won't you? / You won't try the fish, will you?
You ask the teacher, don't you? / You don't ask the teacher, do you?
You need help, don't you? / You don't need help, do you?
Ana Maria wants to go, doesn't she? / Ana Maria doesn't want to go, does she?
Marco became a doctor, didn't he? / Marco didn't become a doctor, did he?

Ejercicios – Question Tags

Add the tag question in each of the examples.

We have to leave,	?
We don't have to leave,	?
Giselle kept her phone in her house,	?
The game starts at 1:00,	?
The game started at 1:00,	?
Hannah is sick,	?
We are going to watch a movie,	?
You should help,	?
You can't hear,	?
The boys didn't play soccer,	?
The pilots aren't going to fly,	?
You won't move to Paris,	?
Irene doesn't like broccoli,	?
Juliet lives in Barranca,	?
Juliet is from Barranca,	?
I'm 18 years-old,	?
I'm not 18 years-old,	?
You bought bread,	?
You didn't write the letter,	?
She's sitting in the class,	?
Kelvin won't tell Mom,	?

Module 2

Either, Neither, Both

Decisions with Two Options

Guide 1 – “Either...or”

We use “either” to say “o” or “cualquier”. It indicates TWO options. We often use “either...or” in a question or an affirmative sentence.

1. Before a noun:

“Podemos hablar o español o inglés.” → “We can speak either Spanish or English.”

“Yo prefiero o carne o pollo.” → “I prefer either meat or chicken.”

2. Before a verb:

“Podemos o nadar o volar.” → “We can either swim or fly.”

“Deberíamos o comer o tomar.” → We should either eat or drink.”

3. To indicate indifference between 2 options. Similar to Spanish, we can say “of” after “either”.

“Cualquier de los chicos le puede ayudar.” → “Either of the boys can help you.”

“Cualquier de ellos le puede ayudar.” → “Either of them can help you.” (Note the object pronoun.)

4. Finally, we can use “either” in a negative sentence to say “tampoco”.

“John doesn’t have a car. I don’t have a car, either.”

“John can’t play soccer, and I can’t, either.”

Examples – “Either...or”

Can we eat either fruits or vegetables? (Adjective)
Can you help me with either my car or my house? (Adjective)
We should play either soccer or tennis. (Adjective)
I want to study either English or Spanish. (Adjective)
We either buy bread or find vegetables. (Adverb)
The girls should either stay in the house or go to the mall. (Adverb)
Can I either give you a sandwich or make you a lunch? (Adverb)
Either Kevin or Sergio can move the car. (Determiner)
Either of the men should arrive today. (Determinar)
Either man should arrive today. (Determinar)
Will you bring either milk or juice? (Adjective)
Are you going to bring either milk or juice? (Adjective)
Should we either go to the store or call the storekeeper? (Adverb)
A lion cannot provide either meat or milk. (Adjective)
Jonathan can't understand the teacher, and I can't, either. (Adverb)
You shouldn't watch the movie. You shouldn't watch TV, either. (Adverb)
I don't fly, and I don't swim, either. (Adverb)
I didn't watch "Harry Potter", and I didn't read the book, either. (Adverb)

Exercises – “Either...or”

Express the following sentences in English.

English	Spanish
We can speak to either the teacher or the student.	Podemos hablar o con el maestro o el alumno.
	Podemos o hablar con el maestro o leer el libro.
	Ellos deberían abrir o la puerta o la ventana.
	Nosotros podemos o caminar en el parque o nadar en la piscina.
	Yo puedo ofrecerte o un trabajo o plata.
	No puedo recordar o mi hermano o mi hermana.
	Cualquiera de los profesores puede ayudarte.
	Cualquiera de las niñas sería bonita.
	El obrero puede construir o una casa o una tienda?
	Yo podría amar a cualquiera de ellas.
	O quedarte o vayase.
	Él tiene o un carro o un moto?
	Yo no puedo ir tampoco.
	Mi madre no concina tampoco.
	Yo no quiero trabajar, pero no quiero jugar tampoco.
	Podemos recoger o el perro o el gato.
	Tu puedes preparar o el desayuno o el almuerzo?
	Las enfermeras van a querer o pan o mantequilla.
	Marcel o pealará o correrá.
	Puedes encontrar o a Nemo o a Dory?

Guide 2 – “Neither...nor”

“Neither...nor” (“ni...ni”) is the negative version of “either...or” in Spanish. It is also used to indicate 2 options.

1. Before a noun:

“No puedo hablar ni español ni inglés.” → “I can speak neither Spanish nor English.”

IMPORTANT: “Neither...nor” are never used with a negative “not”.

“I can’t speak neither Spanish nor English.” INCORRECT

“I can speak neither Spanish nor English.” CORRECT

2. Before a verb:

“No podemos ni nadar ni volar.” → “We can neither swim nor fly.”

“No deberíamos ni comer ni tomar.” → We should neither eat nor drink.”

3. To indicate 0 of 2 options. Similar to Spanish, we can say “of” after “neither”.

“Ninguno de los chicos le puede ayudar.” → “Neither of the boys can help you.”

“Ninguno de ellos le puede ayudar.” → “Neither of them can help you.” (Note the object pronoun.)

Finally, we can use “neither” in a negative sentence to say “tampoco”. Important: Notice that this expression uses an irregular form.

“John doesn’t have a car. Neither do I.”

“John can’t play soccer, and neither do I.”

Ejemplos – “Neither...nor”

We can eat neither fruits nor vegetables. (Adjective)
I can help you with neither your car nor your house. (Adjective)
We should play neither soccer nor tennis. (Adjective)
I want to study neither English nor Spanish. (Adjective)
We neither buy bread nor find vegetables. (Adverb)
The girls should neither stay in the house nor go to the mall. (Adverb)
I can neither give you a sandwich nor make you a lunch. (Adverb)
Neither Kevin nor Sergio can move the car. (Determiner)
Neither of the men should arrive today. (Determinar)
Neither man should arrive today. (Determinar)
We will bring neither milk nor juice. (Adjective)
We are going to bring neither milk nor juice. (Adjective)
We should neither go to the store nor call the storekeeper. (Adverb)
A lion can provide neither meat nor milk. (Adjective)
Jonathan can't understand the teacher, and neither can I. (Adverb)
You shouldn't watch the movie. Neither should you watch TV. (Adverb) (Very unusual use.)
I don't fly, and neither do I swim. (Adverb) (Very unusual usage.)
I didn't watch "Harry Potter". Neither did I. (Adverb)

Ejercicios – “Neither...nor”

Express the following sentences in English.

English	Spanish
We can speak to neither the teacher nor the student.	No podemos hablar ni con el maestro ni el alumno.
	No podemos ni hablar con el maestro ni leer el libro.
	Ellos no deberían abrir ni la puerta ni la ventana.
	Nosotros no podemos ni caminar en el parque ni nadar en la piscina.
	Yo no puedo ofrecerte ni un trabajo ni plata.
	No puedo recordar ni a mi hermano ni a mi hermana.
	Ninguno de los profesores puede ayudarte.
	Ninguna de las niñas sería bonita.
	El obrero no puede construir ni una casa ni una tienda.
	No podría amar a ninguna de ellas.
	¡Ni te quedes ni te vas!
	Él no tiene ni carro ni moto.
	Yo no puedo ir. Él tampoco.
	Mi madre no cocina, ni mi padre tampoco.
	Mi hermano no está enfermo, ni mi hermano tampoco.
	Ellos no pueden recoger ni el perro ni el gato.
	Tú no puedes preparar ni el desayuno ni el almuerzo.
	Las enfermeras no van a querer ni pan ni mantequilla.
	Marcel ni peleará ni correrá.
	Sebastián no puede encontrar ni a Nemo ni a Dory?

Guide 3 – “Both...and”

“Both...and” is the equivalent to “ambos...y” in Spanish, and is used in affirmative sentences.

1. Before a noun:

“Podemos hablar ambos español e inglés.” → “We can speak both Spanish and English.”

2. Before a verb:

“Podemos ambos nadar y volar.” → “We can both swim and fly.”

“Deberíamos ambos comer y tomar.” → “We should both eat and drink.”

3. To indicate 2 of 2 options. Similar to Spanish, we can say “of” after “both”.

“Ambos de los chicos le puede ayudar.” → “Both of the boys can help you.”

“Ambos de ellos le puede ayudar.” → “Both of them can help you.” (Note the object pronoun.)

Remember, we do not use “both” to say “tambien”; we use “also” or “too”.

“John has a car.” → “I also have a car.” → “I have a car, too.”

“John can play soccer, and I can, too.”

Ejemplos – “Both...and”

We can eat both fruits and vegetables. (Adjective)
I can help you with both your car and your house (Adjective)
We should play both soccer and tennis. (Adjective)
I want to study both English and Spanish. (Adjective)
We both buy bread and find vegetables. (Adverb)
The girls should both stay in the house and go to the mall. (Adverb)
I can both give you a sandwich and make you a lunch. (Adverb)
Both Kevin and Sergio can move the car. (Determiner)
Both of the men should arrive today. (Determiner)
Both men* should arrive today. (Determiner) (*“Ambos hombres”)
We will bring both milk and juice. (Adjective)
We are going to bring both milk and juice. (Adjective)
We should both go to the store and call the storekeeper. (Adverb)
A cow can provide both meat and milk. (Adjective)
Jonathan can understand the teacher, and I can, too.
You should watch the movie. You should also watch TV / You should watch TV, too.
I fly, and I also swim.
I watched “Harry Potter”, and I read the book, too.

Ejercicios – “Both...and”

Express the following sentences in English.

English	Spanish
We can speak to both the teacher and the student.	Podemos hablar con ambos el maestro y el alumno.
	Podemos ambos hablar con el maestro y leer el libro.
	Ellos deberían abrir ambos la puerta y la ventana.
	Nosotros podemos ambos caminar en el parque y nadar en la piscina.
	Yo puedo ofrecerte ambos un trabajo y plata.
	Yo puedo recordar ambos a mi hermano y a mi hermana.
	Ambos de los profesores pueden ayudarte.
	Ambas de las niñas serían bonita.
	El obrero puede construir ambos una casa y una tienda.
	Yo podría amar a ambas de ellas.
	Quiero que ambos se queden y se vayan.
	Él tiene ambos carro y moto.
	Yo puedo ir. Él también.
	Mi madre concina, y mi padre también.
	Mi hermano está enfermo, y mi hermana también.
	Ellos pueden recoger ambos el perro y el gato.
	Tú puedes preparar ambos el desayuno y el almuerzo.
	Las enfermeras van a querer ambos pan y mantequilla.
	Marcel ambos pealará y correrá.
	Sebastián puede encontrar ambos a Nemo y a Dory?

Module 3

Deduction

Expressing Suppositions

Guide 1 – Verbs of Deduction

Similar to Spanish, we use verbs of deduction to express a supposition (something we think or believe). The verb depends on the certainty the speaker feels:

Certainty	Verb of Deduction	English Example	Spanish Translation
Very certain	Must	He must be sick.	Él debe estar enfermo.
Partially certain	Might	He might be sick.	Él podría estar enfermo.
	May	He may be sick.
	Could	He could be sick.
Very certain of the opposite	Can't	He can't be sick.	Él no puede estar enfermo.
	Must not (mustn't)	He mustn't be sick.

It is very common to use deduction with the verb “to be”. We often use it in the continuous and perfect tenses.

“He must be playing soccer.”
“He must have arrived already.”

Examples – Verbs of Deduction

Horst is late. He must be sick.
Hamlet is sad. His father must have died.
Sandra is happy. She must be going to Disneyland.
Vanessa might know Alejandra.
Vanessa could know Alejandra.
It is raining today. We may arrive late.
Mike is here. He can't be sick.
My father is in Canada. You can't have seen him.
Sam must have arrived last night. His car is here.
Felix might have come to Bucaramanga after the game.
We may be looking at a car tomorrow. (Note: The continuous as a future tense.)
The girls could have given the ball to the boys. They don't have it now.
I haven't seen Chris today. He must be working.
My son can't have called. He doesn't have his telephone.
Theo knows the answer. He may have asked the teacher.
I hear music. The concert must have started.
Tania finished her homework. Her mother must have helped her.
The boys can't be playing soccer. I have their ball.
My dad might have found a new job yesterday. He was very happy.
Scientists say that King Tut may have lived in Syria.
Why is there whisky in my house? My brother must have brought it.
My mom is sad. Something must have happened.
Where is my cat? I don't know. It may be lost.

Exercises – Verbs of Deduction

Add the verb of deduction that is logical for the context.

Miguel is a lawyer. He _____ be smart.
I can't find my dog. I think it _____ be lost.
Your airplane _____ be under the water. That's impossible.
I don't know where Jeff is, but he _____ be studying.
Felix just broke up with his girlfriend. He _____ feel very sad.
Jessica _____ have COVID. She's in her English class at the moment!
Mark ran for 14 km. He _____ want something to drink.
I'm not sure, but I think Flor _____ be at the concert.
If your dad is a neurosurgeon, he _____ have great hand control.
Emile _____ be flying for Avianca. He's an English teacher now!
If your mom is a doctor, she _____ work at the hospital.
Your flight is a few minutes late, but it _____ arrive at any moment.
Fred _____ be eating ice cream. He's lactose intolerant.
Ricardo has been sick for 2 months. It _____ be serious!
You _____ be visiting my great-grandfather. He died in World War 2.
Richard didn't sleep last night. He _____ be tired today.
You _____ be finished the exam. You received it 5 minutes ago!
The cat isn't in the house. It _____ be anywhere in the neighbourhood!
Jessica left Bucaramanga an hour ago. She _____ be in Rome already!
The doctor wants to do some tests. You _____ have a heart problem.
Andrea is feeling sick. If she's not in the office she _____ be in the bathroom.
Steven hasn't arrived yet. He _____ have car trouble.

Module 4

The Third Conditional

What Would You Have Done?

Guide 1 – The Third Conditional (Straight)

The 3rd conditional (straight) refers to something that did (or did not) happen in the past, and therefore, a certain condition did (or did not) exist in the past.

It has the form:

Clausula con “si” HUBIER- -A, -AS, -AMOS, -AN + PARTICIPLE	Clausula Condicional HABR -ÍA, -ÍAS, -ÍAMOS, -ÍAN + PARTICIPLE
Si yo hubiera estudiado ...	... habría aprobado el examen.

Clause with “if” HAD + PARTICIPLE	Conditional clause WOULD HAVE + PARTICIPLE
If I had studied ...	...I would have passed the exam.

Therefore, I did not study (in the past) and consequently I did not pass the exam (in the past).

The probability of studying is now 0%, because past events cannot be changed.

Examples – 3rd Conditional (Straight)

If I had gotten a bike for Christmas, I would have used it every day.
If you had woken up on time, we wouldn't have been late.
If you had done your homework, you wouldn't have been worried
If Sarah had said good morning, I would have talked to her.
If the pilots had gone to the airport, they would have arrived on time.
If your father had liked chicken, I would have made it for dinner.
If I had known your friend, I would have said hello.
If you had told me, I wouldn't have taken a cookie.
If Gillian had met Arthur, she would have loved him.
If Martin had come to Canada, he would have met my father.
If I had wanted pizza, I would have ordered it.
If Phillip had looked at the car, he would have bought it.
If you had used the computer, you would have found me.
If it had been your birthday, I would have given you money.
If I had known the problem, I would have told you.
If you had worked in Colombia, you would have had money.
If you had called your mother, she would not have been sad.
If the girls had tried the chicken, they would have liked it.
If you had found your brother, what would you have said?
If we had asked the teacher, would he have told us the answer?
If you had needed help, who would you have asked?
If the boys had studied medicine, what would they have become?

Exercises – 3rd Conditional (Straight)

Complete the sentence with the indicated verbs.

If we _____ (leave) the party, we _____ (go) home.
If I _____ (put) my cellphone here, I _____ (find) it already.
If my family _____ (live) in Colombia, they _____ (be) teachers.
If I _____ (want) to study, I _____ (study) science.
If you _____ (ask) me, I _____ (help) you.
If the teacher _____ (ask) me, I _____ (show) her my paper.
If I _____ (know) you were here, we _____ (play) tennis.
If I _____ (see) the lion, I _____ (ran).
If my father _____ (find) a job in Medellin, we _____ (move).
If we _____ (buy) a dog, I _____ (love) it.
If my mother _____ (work) in Bogota, we _____ (live) there.
If I _____ (come) to the party, I _____ (bring) food.
If you _____ (write) to your father, he _____ (answer).
If my sister _____ (tell) me, I _____ (understand).
If your friends _____ (visit) Winnipeg, I _____ (meet) them.
If the students _____ (learn) math, they _____ (have) no questions.
If I _____ (be) in Bucaramanga, we _____ (watch) a movie.
If I _____ (go), you _____ (follow) me.
If you _____ (read) "MacBeth", you _____ (like) it.
If they _____ (meet) my grandmother, they _____ (love) her.
If I _____ (see) you, I _____ (open) the door.

Guide 2 – The Third Conditional (Mixed)

The 3rd conditional (mixed) is very similar to the 3rd conditional (straight). But, it refers to something that did (or did not) happen in the past, and therefore, a certain condition does (or does not) exist in the present/future.

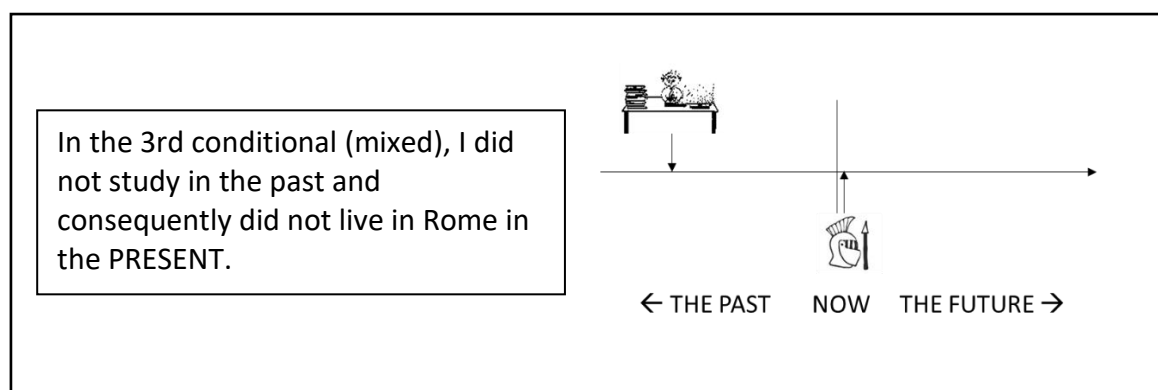

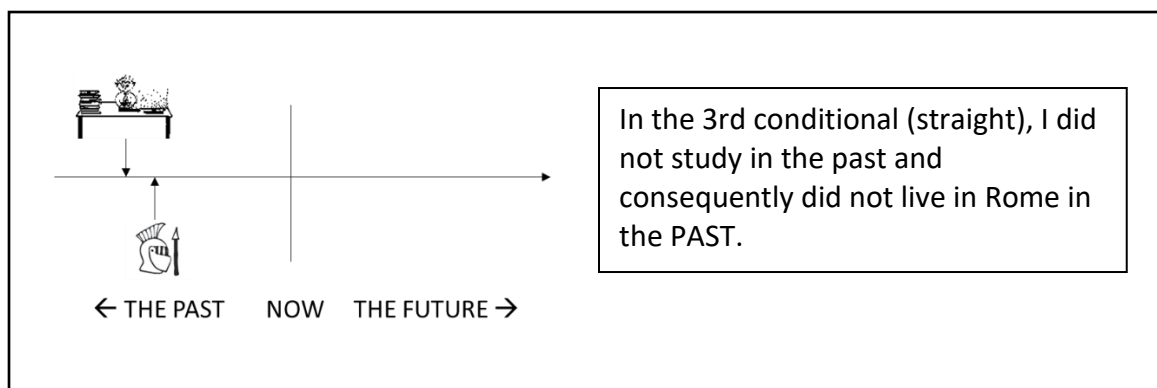

It has the form:

Clausula con “si” HUBIER- -A, -AS, -AMOS, -AN + PARTICIPLE	Clausula Condicional VERB + -ÍA, -ÍAS, -ÍAMOS, -ÍAN
Si yo hubiera estudiado ...	...yo trabajaría en Roma hoy.

Clause with “if” HAD + PARTICIPLE	Conditional clause WOULD HAVE + PARTICIPLE
If I had studied ...	...I would work in Rome today.

Therefore, I did not study (in the past), and consequently, I do not live in Rome today.

The probability of studying is now 0%, because past events cannot be changed.

Examples – 3rd Conditional (Mixed)

If you had been on time, I would be amazed.
If I had had a car, I would be an expert driver.
If you had done your homework, the teacher wouldn't be angry.
If Sarah had talked to me, we would be talking all day.
If the pilots had gone to the airport, they would be flying now.
If you hadn't sold the cow, we would have hamburgers today.
If we hadn't met, my life would be very sad.
If she had lied to me, I wouldn't believe her today.
If Gillian had met Arthur, they would be married.
If Martin had come to Canada, he would know my father.
If I had eaten pizza, I would be sick.
If Phillip had bought the a car, he wouldn't use a bike today.
If you had learned to program the computer, you would work for Google.
If it had been your birthday yesterday, you would be sleeping today.
If I had known the problem, it would be resolved.
If you had lived in Colombia, you would know Spanish.
If you had called your mother for her birthday, she wouldn't be sad today.
If Shakira had kissed me after the concert, I would still be happy today!
If I had stayed in Canada, I wouldn't know many interesting Colombians.
If we had asked the teacher, we would know the answer.
If you had asked for directions, where would you be now?
If the boys had studied medicine, they would be doctors today.

Exercises – 3rd Conditional (Mixed)

Complete the sentence with the indicated verbs.

If we _____ (leave) the party, we _____ (be) at home.
If I _____ (put) my cellphone here, I _____ (have) it already.
If my family _____ (live) in Colombia, they _____ (like) coffee.
If I _____ (want) to study, I _____ (be) a scientist.
If you _____ (ask) me, you _____ (know) the solution.
If she _____ (love) me, we _____ (live) together today.
If I _____ (know) you were here, we _____ (be) friends.
If I _____ (see) the lion, I _____ (be) running.
If my father _____ (find) a job in Medellin, we _____ (live) there.
If we _____ (buy) a dog, I _____ (love) it.
If my mother _____ (work) in Bogota, she _____ (live) there.
If I _____ (come) to the party, I _____ (know) your friends.
If Frank _____ (study) law, he _____ (be) a lawyer.
If my sister _____ (tell) me, I _____ (understand) the problem.
If your friends _____ (visit) Winnipeg, I _____ (know) them.
If the students _____ (learn) math, they _____ (be) better scientists.
If I _____ (be) in Bucaramanga, we _____ (watch) a movie.
If I _____ (eat) poison, I _____ (feel) sick.
If you _____ (read) "MacBeth", you _____ (be) better educated.
If Germany _____ (win) the war, we _____ (speak) German today.
If I _____ (see) you, we _____ (drive) together.

Guide 3 – The Conditionals Compared

You have now learned all the conditionals! Let's review them all in one table:

Cond.	Probability	Verb Tenses	English Example	Spanish Translation
0	Always true	If (present) + (present).	If you help Ana, she is happy.	Si ayudas a Alice, ella está feliz.
1 st	Probable or certain	If (present) + (future).	If you help Ana, she will be happy.	Si ayudas a Alice, ella estará feliz.
2 nd	Improbable or Impossible	If (past simple) + (conditional).	If you helped Ana, she would be happy.	Si ayudas a Alice, ella estará feliz.
3 rd (straight)	Always impossible	If (past perfect) + (present perfect conditional).	If you had helped Ana, she would have been happy.	Si hubieras ayudado a Alice, ella habría estado feliz.
3 rd (mixed)	Always impossible	If (past perfect) + (conditional).	If you had helped Ana, she would be happy.	Si hubieras ayudado a Alice, ella estaría feliz.

Remember; the correct conditional depends on the level of probability in the mind of the person talking.

The 0, 1st, and 2nd conditionals are used for current or future situations.

The 3rd conditionals are used for past situations.

Examples – The Conditionals Compared

0: If Mark arrives on time, I am amazed.
1st: If Mark arrives on time, I will be amazed.
2nd: If Mark arrived on time, I would be amazed.
3rd straight: If Mark had arrived on time, I would have been amazed.
3rd: Mixed: If Mark had arrived on time, I would be amazed.

0: If I have money, I buy lunch.
1st: If I have money, I will buy lunch.
2nd: If I had money, I would buy lunch.
3rd straight: If I had had money, I would have bought lunch.
3rd: Mixed: If I had had money, I would buy lunch.

0: If you love her, you don't leave her.
1st: If you love her, you won't leave her.
2nd: If you loved her, you wouldn't leave her.
3rd straight: If you had loved her, you wouldn't have left her.
3rd: Mixed: If you had loved her, you wouldn't leave her.

0: If the dog eats grass, it feels sick.
1st: If the dog eats grass, it will feel sick.
2nd: If the dog ate grass, it would feel sick.
3rd straight: If the dog had eaten grass, it would have felt sick.
3rd: Mixed: If the dog had eaten grass, it would feel sick.

0: If the students study medicine, they become doctors.
1st: If the students study medicine, they will become doctors.
2nd: If the students studied medicine, they would become doctors.
3rd straight: If the students had studied medicine, they would have become doctors.
3rd: Mixed: If the students had studied medicine, they would become doctors.

0: If it makes you happy, why are you sad?
1st: If it makes you happy, why will you be sad?
2nd: If it made you happy, why would you be sad?
3rd straight: If it had made you happy, why would you have been sad?
3rd: Mixed: If it had made you happy, why would you be sad?

Exercises – The Conditionals Compared

Complete the missing conditionals.

0: If I am hungry, I eat.

1st: _____

2nd: _____

3rd straight: _____

3rd: Mixed: _____

0: _____

1st: If we work in Canada, we will have money.

2nd: _____

3rd straight: _____

3rd: Mixed: _____

0: _____

1st: _____

2nd: If you felt bored, you would go to a party.

3rd straight: _____

3rd: Mixed: _____

0: _____

1st: _____

2nd: _____

3rd straight: If Ana had had a baby, she would have been a great mother.

3rd: Mixed: _____

0: _____

1st: _____

2nd: _____

3rd straight: _____

3rd: Mixed: If you had been angry, what would you say?

Module 5

Could Have / Should Have

The Perfect Modals

Guide 1 – The Past Modals

In the 3rd Conditional (straight), we used “would” + the present perfect to indicate our willingness (voluntad) to do something. Similarly, we can use “could” + present perfect to express a possibility in the past, and “should” + present perfect for a recommendation in the past.

1. “Would” – Willingness in the past:

Would + present perfect	Willingness (voluntad) in the past, but not done.	“I would have gone to the store.” (Implies: “But, I did not go to the store.”)	“Habría ido a la tienda.” (Implica: “Pero, no fui.”)
Would not + present perfect	No willingness (voluntad) in the past, so not done.	“I would not have gone to the store.” (Implies: “So, I did not go to the store.”)	“No habría haber ido a la tienda.” (Implica, “Por tal razón, no fui.”)

2. “Could” – Possibility in the past:

Could + present perfect	Possible in the past, but not done.	“I could have gone to the store.” (Implies: “But, I did not go to the store.”)	“Pude/podía haber ido a la tienda.” (Implica: “Pero, no fui.”)
Could not + present perfect	Not possible in the past, so not done.	“I could not have gone to the store.” (Implies: “So, I did not go to the store.”)	“No pude/podía haber ido a la tienda.” (Implica, “Por tal razón, no fui.”)

3. “Should” – Recommendation in the past:

Should + present perfect	Recommendable in the past, but not done.	“I should have gone to the store.” (Implies: “But, I did not go to the store.”)	“Yo debería haber ido a la tienda.” (Implica: “Pero, no fui.”)
Should not + present perfect	Not recommendable in the past, but was done.	“I should not have gone to the store.” (Implies: “But, I did not go to the store.”)	“Yo no debería haber ido a la tienda.” (Implica, “Pero, sí, yo fui.”)

Examples – The Past Modals

I shouldn't have been angry yesterday.
I shouldn't have been angry yesterday, but I was.
I should have been happy yesterday.
I should have been happy yesterday, but I wasn't.
I could have had pizza last week.
I couldn't have helped my sister last month. I was busy.
Bella should have done her homework last night.
Anita could have said good morning.
Brian shouldn't have driven to the mall. He should have walked.
I couldn't have gone to the beach. It was too cold!
I should have made tacos for dinner, but I made empanadas.
I should have known you were sick!
I was too tired. I couldn't think about my homework.
The dog couldn't have taken the cookies. She was outside in the garden.
You should have seen Natalia last night. She was so beautiful!
You are still angry. I shouldn't have come.
The boys couldn't have used the computer yesterday. They were at the school.
I should have found my hat yesterday. Now, I am late and I have to find it.
I shouldn't have given $100 to my little brother. He lost the money!
I should have told my mother about the problem. She always knows what to do.
Your brother should have become a doctor. He was always great in school.
I couldn't have left before 11:00. I didn't have a car.

Exercises – The Past Modals

Complete the sentence with “would(n’t)”/”could(n’t)”/”should(n’t)” + the verb in the present perfect.

You _____ (leave) your phone in the house. Now, it is lost.
I _____ (help) you yesterday. I worked all day.
If I had known you were in Bucaramanga, I _____ (visit) you!
I know that I _____ (talk) to John, but I didn’t. I don’t like him.
My dad _____ (be) in Rome yesterday. He’s here in my house today!
You _____ (hear) Breagh play the violin. She was amazing!
I _____ (study) last week. I had free time.
My parents _____ (move) to Bogota, but I didn’t want to, so we didn’t.
My family _____ (drive) to Bucaramanga last week. We didn’t have a car.
I can’t believe he stole money from me. I _____ (trust) him!
My father _____ (write) to you yesterday, but he lost his phone.
We _____ (meet) yesterday, but you didn’t answer my message.
Even if I had bought a motorbike, I _____ (use) it. They’re terrifying.
The teacher _____ (finish) the class after lunch, but he had to go home.
You _____ (learn) anything. You didn’t go to the class!
We _____ (watch) that movie. It was terrible.
The students _____ (speak) to the teacher. She knows everything.
He _____ (open) the door. He doesn’t have the key.
You _____ (give) the money to the baby. She lost it, obviously.
Your boss is an idiot, yes, but you probably _____ (say) that to him.
It’s amazing he survived the accident. He _____ (die)!

Guide 2 – Expressing Regret

“Should/could/would have” are sometimes used to express regrets.

I should have gone to the game. Everyone had a great time!

Two other expressions are commonly used to express regret:

1. “To wish”. Similar to “ojalá” in Spanish.

I wish I had gone to the game. → Ojalá hubiera ido al partido.

2. “If only”. More common in England. In North America, it is considered a bit dramatic.

If only I had gone to the game. → Si tan solo hubiera ido al juego.

Note that both expressions use the “had + participle” form similar to the 3rd conditional.

North American speakers often use both expressions with “would have + participle”. This is incorrect, but generally accepted English.

I wish I would have gone to the game.

Examples – Expressing Regret

Regret: I was angry yesterday. → “I shouldn’t have been angry yesterday.”
Regret: I broke the car. → “I wish I hadn’t broken the car.”
Regret: I fought with my mother. → “If only I hadn’t fought with my mother.”
Regret: Billy didn’t play with us. → “Billy should have played with us.”
Regret: We didn’t have had pizza last week. → “I wish we had had pizza last week.”
Regret: I couldn’t help my sister last month. → “I wish I could have helped my sister.”
Regret: Bella didn’t do her homework. → “If only Bella had done her homework.”
Regret: Anita didn’t say good morning. → “I wish Anita had said good morning.”
Regret: Brian drove to the mall. → “Brian shouldn’t have driven to the mall.”
Regret: I went to the beach. → “I wish I hadn’t gone to the beach. It was too cold.”
Regret: I made tacos for dinner. → “If only I hadn’t made tacos for dinner!”
Regret: Reggie did not know that I was sick. → “I wish Reggie had known that I was sick.”
Regret: I forgot my homework. → “I shouldn’t have forgotten my homework!”
Regret: We lost our dog. → “If only we hadn’t lost our dog.”
Regret: I couldn’t see Natalia. → “I wish I could have see Natalia! She is so beautiful.”
Regret: You were angry yesterday. → “You shouldn’t have been angry yesterday.”
Regret: The boys were at school. → “I wish the boys hadn’t been at school.”

Exercises – Expressing Regret

Create a sentence based on the regret given. Use a mix of “to wish”, “If only”, etc.

Regret: You forgot your phone.
Regret: Amelia was very boring.
Regret: The boys couldn't play soccer.
Regret: My brother had the car.
Regret: We didn't show the work to the teacher.
Regret: You didn't hear Breagh play the violin.
Regret: It was raining.
Regret: My parents moved to Bogota.
Regret: My family didn't live in Bucaramanga.
Regret: I didn't believe that you were honest.
Regret: My father wrote to you yesterday.
Regret: I met my ex.
Regret: We didn't include our parents in the party.
Regret: The teacher didn't continue the class after lunch.
Regret: You couldn't learn anything.
Regret: We watched a terrible movie.
Regret: The students didn't speak to the teacher.

Module 6

Connectors of Cause and Contrast

Building Complex Sentences

Guide 1 – Connectors of Cause, Result, and Consequence

In English and Spanish, we often connect two sentences for better flow. For example, to describe a cause or result.

Connectors of Cause

Form	English	Spanish
[Clause 1] + “Because” + [Clause 2].	I love her BECAUSE she is beautiful.	La amo PORQUE ella es hermosa.
Equivalent but more formal: “Since”, “as”

Form	English	Spanish
[Clause 1] + “Because of” + [Noun].	I love her BECAUSE OF her beauty.	La amo POR su belleza.
Equivalent but more formal: “due to” Equivalent (and sometimes sarcastic): “thanks to”

Connectors of Result or Consequence

Form	English	Spanish
[Clause 1] + “,” + “so” + [Clause 2].	She is beautiful, SO I love her.	Ella es hermosa, ASÍ QUE la amo.
Equivalent but more formal: “thus”, “therefore”

Form	English	Spanish
[Clause 1] + “.” + “That’s why” + [Clause 2].	She is beautiful. THAT’S WHY I love her.	Ella es hermosa. POR ESO la amo.
Equivalent but more formal: “consequently”, “as a result”, and “for this reason”

Examples – Connectors of Cause, Result, and Consequence

Because we didn't have anything to do, we went home.
I think my brother is in the house, because his car is there.
Because of the winter, we will stay in the house.
I am going to the school due to my class.
Thanks to my friends, we arrived very late.
I know Daniela, so I invited her to the party.
I don't have a lot of money. That's why I eat at home.
We should go to Melissa's house, because she visited us last week.
Since you want bread, you should go to the bakery.
We should stay home because of the traffic jam (trancon).
Due to your excellent offer, I will work with you.
Thanks to your help, we can give a house to a poor (pobre) family. [Not sarcastic.]
I found your dog, so we can go to the park.
I'm your father. That's why you should tell me your problems.
Because we work together, we could go to a restaurant with the team.
Since you won't help me, I will find another person.
Because of these problems, we will have to start again tomorrow.
Due to my health (salud), I cannot go to the game.
Thanks to my teacher, I can speak English!
The airport is open, so we can fly to Bogota.
I lost my money. That's why I can't give you $100.
I didn't eat because I thought we were going to go to the restaurant.

Exercises 1 – Connectors of Cause, Result, and Consequence

Complete the sentence using the logical connector of cause, result, or consequence.

I don't like him _____ his bad attitude.
She is annoying, _____ we won't invite her to the party.
You got a 95% on the exam _____ you studied a lot!
We don't have much money this week, _____ I don't think we should travel.
Sorry, Teacher. I was late _____ the rain!
She has a terrible personality, and she fights a lot. _____ I don't like her.
Your sister doesn't have a lot of money _____ she can't find a job.
I helped you yesterday, _____ you should help me today.
I have a doctor's appointment today at 3:00. _____ I couldn't go to the class.
You were able to study medicine _____ your excellent high school marks.
I didn't see the Coliseum _____ I didn't go to Rome.
I love you. _____ I will never leave you.
Oscar is sad, _____ you should give him a hug.
I love you _____ your beautiful green eyes.
You are late and you didn't study. _____ you didn't pass the exam.
We didn't talk to Maria _____ we didn't see her.
I didn't tell Mom the secret, _____ I hope you don't, either!
The Titanic was lost _____ various operational and structural problems.
I didn't say anything bad to you, _____ I don't understand why you're angry.
You should drink water _____ it is good for your health.
Van Gogh had an excellent eye for detail. _____ he was a great artist.
Colombia has many economic problems _____ its corruption and violence.

Exercises 2 – Connectors of Cause, Result, and Consequence

Create a sentence using the connector given.

	(Because)
	(Since)
	(Because of)
	(Due to)
	(Thanks to)
	(So)
	(That's why)
	(Because)
	(Since)
	(Because of)
	(Due to)
	(Thanks to)
	(So)
	(That's why)
	(Because)
	(Since)
	(Because of)
	(Due to)
	(Thanks to)
	(So)
	(That's why)
	(Thanks to)

Guide 2 – Connectors of Contrast

In English and Spanish, we often connect two sentences to illustrate a contrast. These connectors are connectors of contrast:

Connectors of Contrast

Form	English	Spanish
[Clause 1] + “,” + “but” + [Clause 2].	I want to play, BUT I have to work.	Quiero jugar, PERO tengo que trabajar.
Equivalent but more formal: “however”, “though”, “yet”, “whereas”

Form	English	Spanish
“Even though, + [Clause 1] + “,” + [Clause 2].	EVEN THOUGH I want to play, I have to work.	AUNQUE quiero jugar, tengo que trabajar.
Equivalent but more formal: “although”, “while”, “whereas”, “notwithstanding”

Form	English	Spanish
[Clause 1] + “.” + “On the other hand” + [Clause 2].	I want to play. ON THE OTHER HAND, I have to work.	Quiero jugar. POR OTRO LADO, tengo que trabajar.
Equivalent but more formal: “Nevertheless”, “nonetheless”, “conversely”, “in contrast”, “even so”, “instead”, “at the same time”

Form	English	Spanish
“In spite of” + [Noun] + “,” + [Clause 2].	IN SPITE OF your efforts, we lost.	A PESAR DE sus esfuerzos, perdimos.
Equivalent but more formal: “despite”

Examples – Connectors of Contrast

I have to be strong, but I want to run.
I am hungry, however, I am trying not to eat before bedtime.
Even though I said I would help you, I am very busy today. Can we work tomorrow?
Although I want to buy a new car, I don't have the money.
I go to the gym every day. On the other hand, I am often sick.
In spite of my work, I have no money.
Despite my hard work, I have no money.
I would say good morning, but I don't know her.
We could go to the restaurant, however, we already ate.
Even though you think that Brian is handsome, you don't love him.
Although I took a cookie, I am still hungry.
Sebastián might come to the class. On the other hand, he might not.
In spite of the money, I don't want to work.
Despite your offer, I can't come to Medellin.
I found tomatoes, but I can't find any bread.
I told Mom, however, I don't think we should tell Dad.
Even though you called Arnulfo, he wasn't interested.
Although I tried the fish, I didn't like it.
In spite of your help, we couldn't finish in time.
Despite becoming* a doctor, I want more money. *Note the gerund use.
I have to leave now, but I will see you tomorrow.
I would like to keep the dog, however he eats a lot of food!

Exercises 1 – Connectors of Contrast

Complete the sentence using the logical connector of contrast.

_____ your excellent references, we don't have a job for you.
She is a good worker. _____, the boss really doesn't like her.
_____ you made your best effort, the project wasn't finished on time.
It's a good idea, _____ I don't think the other team members will agree.
We could travel to Cartagena. _____, I have always wanted to see Paris.
_____ it's a complicated project, I think it's very important to implement it.
I'm slow, _____ my work is excellent.
I think that I am the smartest person here. _____, you might have other ideas.
_____ my head hurts, I'm going to class.
It's a beautiful day, _____ I'm tired and I don't want to leave the house.
_____ the time, we need to eat breakfast.
It's a long movie, _____ the special effects are amazing.
_____ you are young, you need glasses.
_____ all my problems, I have an amazing life.
We could play baseball today. _____, hockey is a lot more fun.
I want to make a fruit smoothie for breakfast, _____ I don't have any bananas.
_____ I'm not tired, I need to go to bed.
_____ his great smile, he is an angry person.
_____ dragons don't really exist, I wish I had one.
He has a handsome face. _____, his ears are kinda big.
Zebras don't live in Colombia, _____ you can see them in a zoo.

Exercises 2 – Connectors of Contrast

Create a sentence using the connector given.

	(But)
	(However)
	(Even though)
	(Although)
	(In spite of)
	(Despite)
	(But)
	(However)
	(Even though)
	(Although)
	(In spite of)
	(Despite)
	(But)
	(However)
	(Even though)
	(Although)
	(In spite of)
	(Despite)
	(But)
	(However)
	(Even though)

Module 7

Relative Pronouns & Embedded Questions

A New Way to Combine Clauses

Guide 1 – Simple Relative Pronouns

1. In Level A2, we learned the relative pronoun “that”.

I know that you play. / I knew that you played.

2. There are more relative pronouns in English, and the majority are identical to the “question words”.
3. A relative pronoun connects two ideas, and tells us more information about the subject or object. In the sentences below, the relative pronoun is used as the object of the sentence.

Yo sé dónde tú juegas. → I know where you play.

Yo sé cuándo tú juegas. → I know when you play.

Yo sé por qué tú juegas. → I know why you play.

Yo sé cómo tú juegas. → I know how you play.

Yo sé con quién tú juegas. → I know who you play with.

Yo sé lo que tú juegas. → I know what you play. *Notice that “what” → “lo que”, not “that”.

4. The words after the relative pronoun follow the normal organization for an affirmative sentence (“you play”).
5. Sometimes, after the relative pronoun, we use a verb in the infinitive.

Yo sé dónde jugar. → I know where to play.

Yo sé cuándo jugar. → I know when to play.

Yo sé jugar. → I know how to play. * Notice: English specifies “como”.

Examples – Relative Pronouns

I know where my friends live.
I reported where the airplane was flying.
I told Mary how to find the cat.
I thought about when we could travel.
I asked how he can help me.
I want to know what you need.
My sister knows how to swim. (Infinitive)
My brother knows how to play piano.
I need to know where to send the letter.
I know what a car is.
I learned how to play baseball.
I am asking when we can eat.
I asked* when we could* eat. *Remember the “backshift” from Level A2.
I know who your brother is.
I know who cleans your house.
I told Jamie when I could help him.
I will tell Jamie when I can help him.
I don't know how to tell you this.
I am learning when to talk at parties and when to say nothing.
The pirate wrote where we can find the treasure.
I don't know what to tell my mother.
Peter Pan doesn't know who his father is.

Exercises – Relative Pronouns

Complete the sentence with the logical relative pronoun.

I'm sorry, I don't know _____ I can help you.
I have no idea _____ your hat is.
I like _____ you play tennis.
My sister asked _____ you were feeling.
Frank told me _____ you were living.
I can't say _____ he might return.
I saw _____ was in your house.
I know _____ you did last week.
I can tell you _____ your friends are.
I asked you _____ you know my name.
I told Steven _____ he can find the dog.
Charlie knows _____ went to the store.
Brittney wants to know _____ she can pay.
The girls know _____ the money is.
I have an idea _____ we can find the cat.
My friends really like _____ you speak English.
I don't know _____ can work today.
We have no idea _____ the pilots went.
I can help you learn _____ to fly.
I learned _____ my teacher lived last year.
I showed Ralph _____ to play tennis.

Guide 2 – Restrictive Relative Clauses

1. Relative pronouns can also give more information about the subject or object of a sentence.
2. The restrictive relative clause gives information that is necessary for identification. They almost always use the relative pronoun “that” for “que”.

“The car that I bought is blue.” → “El carro que compré es azul.”

3. The relative clause “that I bought” is necessary to identify to which specific car the speaker is referring.

“The car ~~that I bought~~ is blue”. → “The car is blue.” (Ambiguous. What car?)

4. We can use other relative pronouns to identify places, times, and people.

“The park where we met is beautiful.” → “El parque donde nos conocimos es hermoso.”

“The night when I met you was very special.” → “La noche cuando te conocí fue muy especial.”

“The girl who I love is very pretty.” → “La chica a quien yo amo es muy bonita.”

Examples – Restrictive Relative Clauses

The city where I live is beautiful.
The people who I live with are very friendly.
The year when we moved to Canada was difficult.
The “facts” that the politician explained were total lies.
I will never forget the day when my grandmother died.
The ties that bind us together are eternal.
The airport where we arrived is called Palonegro.
I loved the class when the teacher distributed candy to everyone!
Camila is a person who makes friends easily.
There is no problem that I can’t solve with a few million dollars.
We need an air conditioner that can cool the entire building.
The night when Paddy Murphy died is a night that I’ll never forget.
There is a person in the office who needs to talk to you.
Waterloo was the battle where Napoleon’s empire came to an end.
The airplane was a machine that revolutionized transportation.
She is the teacher who everybody loves.
Let’s not talk about the time when he cheated with his secretary.
This classroom is a place where there are no stupid questions.
You are a person who will go far in life.
August is a month when Colombians like to fly kites.
I have a question that no one has been able to resolve.
A doctor is a professional who most people trust.

Examples – Restrictive Relative Clauses

Complete the sentence with the logical relative pronoun.

Is there any place _____ you feel safe?
There was a time _____ I loved her.
Hitler was a leader _____ inspired either loyalty or hatred.
This is the table _____ my dad built.
Do you remember the moment _____ you knew that you were in love?
You aren't the kind of person _____ I like to work with.
The office is a place _____ I spend the majority of my time.
I have some information _____ will be very interesting for you.
The year 2020 was a time _____ the entire world apparently went crazy.
These Oakleys have polarized lenses _____ will protect your eyes from bright lights.
Do you know a store _____ I can buy a new bathing suit?
Did I tell you about the morning _____ I met my girlfriend?
It was in Japan _____ the first nuclear bombs were used in war.
Chinese dictator Mao was the man _____ killed the most other people in history.
Corruption is probably the biggest problem _____ we face in Colombia.
That was the moment _____ I understood that I had made a mistake.
My garage is a safe place _____ I keep my car.
My dad is the person _____ I feel the closest to.
I have a coffee cup _____ I use every day.
I live in Colombia, but Canada is _____ my heart is.
If you have a lot of problems, that's _____ you learn who your real friends are.

Guide 3 – Non-Restrictive Relative Clauses

5. Non-restrictive clauses give information that is NOT necessary for identification. It is “additional information”.

“My house is white.” → “Mi casa es blanca.”

“My house, which is big, is white.” → “Mi casa, que es grande, es blanca”.

6. The relative clause “which is big” is NOT necessary to identify to which specific house the speaker is referring.
7. Relative clauses with additional information are usually separated by commas. They almost always use the relative pronoun “which” for “que”.
8. We can use other relative pronouns to identify places, times, and people.

“San Pio Park, where we met, is beautiful.” → “El parque San Pio, donde nos conocimos, es hermoso”.

“April 2, when I met you, was very special.” → “El 2 de abril, cuando te conocí, fue muy especial”.

“Pepita, who I love, is very pretty.” → “Pepita, a quien yo amo, es muy bonita.”

9. The relative clause can also be located at the end of the sentence, separated by one comma.

“This is San Pio park, which is beautiful.” → “Este es el parque San Pio, que es hermoso.”

Examples – Non-Restrictive Relative Clauses

Bucaramanga, where we live, is beautiful.
La Represa, where the airplane is flying, is far from Bogotá.
My sister, who is my hero, plays soccer.
My birthday, when I get a lot of gifts, is in April.
My car, which is very fast, is in the garage today.
My family, who are great people, live in Bucaramanga.
My uncle is from Germany, where people love drinking beer.
My brother, who is very intelligent, knows how to play piano. (Two relative pronouns!)
Your questions, which are very sophisticated, are too complicated for an A1 class.
My children, who are studying English, want to visit Canada.
I, who love sports, learned how to play baseball.
The red car, which I drove today, is gone.
The San Luis Clinic, where my daughter was born, is located one block from Heiiu.
Colombia, where I grew up, is in South America.
My class, when I learn how to speak English, starts at 7:00.
The party, which I enjoy, is in Cabecera.
My best students, who are often young, have a solid base in English from the internet.
Last year, when I had a lot of money, I bought a new car.
Yesterday, when you asked me for help, I was very busy.
Barichara, where we go in December, is a beautiful town.
My father, who studied science, became a teacher at the UIS.
Sebastian, who we asked for money, couldn't help us.

Exercises – Non-Restrictive Relative Clauses

Complete the sentence with the logical relative pronoun.

My friends, _____ are crazy, want to come to the class.
Canada, _____ is a very large country, is far from Colombia.
I like Colombia, _____ my family lives.
My sister, _____ works at the movie theatre, watches movies free!
Last month, _____ you were living in the US, we wanted to visit you.
The students, _____ I really like, studied a lot last night.
My parents, _____ drive a Renault, visited me yesterday.
Last night, _____ I was flying, you tried to call me.
Our house, _____ my father lived for many years, is in Girón.
Soccer, _____ Colombians love, is also a big business around the world.
I told Steven, _____ didn't listen to me, to come.
Deven, _____ I don't like, came to the store today.
The girls from my class, _____ helped me with the homework, are at home today.
2017, _____ we started working in Bucaramanga, was a good year.
My idea, _____ is brilliant, occurred to me in the shower.
Jessica, _____ is a wonderful teacher, left Colombia.
The town of Fort Frances, _____ my family lived in the 1950s, is in Canada.
The airport, _____ my brother works, is closed today.
Michael, _____ I saw in April, disappeared.
Ten years ago, _____ I was young, my teacher taught me English.
The restaurant Crepes and Waffles, _____ I often go with my family, has good food.

Guide 4 – Omitting Relative Pronouns

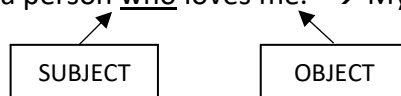

10. When the relative pronoun is used as the object of a clause, it can be omitted optionally.

“My mom is a person who I love.” → My mom is a person I love.

11. When the relative pronoun is used as the subject of a clause, it cannot be omitted.

“My mom is a person who loves me.” → My mom is a person who loves me.

12. The same rule applies for “which” and “that”, “when”, etc.

“A Ferrari is a car that I drive on the weekend.” → “A Ferrari is a car I drive on the weekend.”

“A Ferrari is a car that has a big engine.”

13. Note: Even when the relative pronoun is optional, we often include it in the sentence for clarity. Written or academic work will usually include the pronoun.

Examples – Omitting Relative Pronouns

The problem that I see is the time. → The problem I see is the time.
The people who I live with are very friendly. → The people I live with are very friendly.
The year when we moved to Colombia was hard. → The year we moved to Colombia was hard.
You are a person that people love. → You are a person people love.
You are a person who loves animals. (Cannot omit.)
The ties that bind us together are eternal. (Cannot omit.)
The day when I met you was wonderful. → The day I met you was wonderful.
The students loved the teacher who explained things clearly. (Cannot omit.)
Camila is a person who makes friends easily. (Cannot omit.)
This is a problem that I can solve with a million dollars. → This is a problem I can solve with a million dollars.
We need an air conditioner that can cool the entire building. (Cannot omit.)
The night when Paddy Murphy died is a night that I'll never forget. → The night Paddy Murphy died is a night I'll never forget.
There is a person in the office who needs to talk to you. (Cannot omit.)
This is my water bottle that can hold a little bit of water. (Cannot omit.)
The airplane was a machine that revolutionized transportation. (Cannot omit.)
She is the teacher who everybody loves. → She is the teacher everybody loves.
Let's not talk about the time when he cheated with his secretary. → Let's not talk about the time he cheated with his secretary.
This classroom is a place where there are no stupid questions. (Cannot omit.)
You are a person who will go far in life. (Cannot omit.)
Zapatoca is a place that I love. → Zapatoca is a place I love.
I have a question that no one can resolve. → I have a question no one can resolve.
A doctor is a professional who most people trust. → A doctor is a professional most people trust.

Exercises – Omitting Relative Pronouns

Complete the sentence with “who” or “which” and indicate if it CAN BE omitted.

This is the dog _____ I told you about. (OMIT / NO)
You are the woman _____ I love. (OMIT / NO)
Alejandra is the student _____ gets the best marks. (OMIT / NO)
I am the man _____ can make your life complete. (OMIT / NO)
It is me _____ you should be worried about! (OMIT / NO)
I am the one _____ knocks. (OMIT / NO)
Rob is a leader _____ the employees trust. (OMIT / NO)
This is a problem _____ nobody can solve. (OMIT / NO)
COVID-19 was an issue _____ showed the incompetence of government. (OMIT / NO)
You ask many questions _____ only an expert could answer. (OMIT / NO)
Do you know anyone _____ works in Canada? (OMIT / NO)
Cancer isn't a disease _____ a person can treat with home remedies. (OMIT / NO)
I don't know _____ of my brother's ideas is the craziest. (OMIT / NO)
This the bottle _____ I use for cycling. (OMIT / NO)
Chuck Norris was the only man _____ could scare Superman. (OMIT / NO)
James made the goal _____ won the game for Colombia. (OMIT / NO)
A soldier is a person _____ puts his country ahead of himself. (OMIT / NO)
In Canada, a good jacket is an investment _____ can save your life. (OMIT / NO)
A corrientazo is a meal _____ many Colombians eat every day. (OMIT / NO)
In any country, it's hard to find a politician _____ isn't corrupt. (OMIT / NO)
Love the people _____ you love with all your heart. (OMIT / NO)

Guide 5 – Embedded Questions

1. Embedded questions are common in courteous English and Spanish.
2. “Embedded” = “encapsulado” indicates the question is encapsulated in a longer phrase.

Direct Question	Embedded Question
What do you need?	Can you tell me what you need ?
¿Que necesitas?	¿Puedes decirme lo que necesitas ?

3. Important! The relative clause uses the AFFIRMATIVE ORGANIZATION, not the question.

CORRECT: Can you tell me what you need?

INCORRECT: Can you tell me what do you need?

4. Some of the most common embedded question forms are:

Question forms:

Do you know...? (Sentence ends with “?”)

Can/could you tell me...? (Sentence ends with “?”)

I want/need/would like to know... (“Sentence ends with “.”)

Uncertainty forms:

I don’t know/I’m not sure... (“Sentence ends with “.”)

I wonder... (Me pregunto...) (“Sentence ends with “.”)

5. Finally, if there is no obvious question word (when, where, how, etc.), we use the word “if” (“si”) or “whether” for formal writing:

I wonder if my dad went to the class. → Me pregunto si mi papá fue a la clase.

Examples – Embedded Questions

What time are we leaving?	Do you know what time we are leaving?
How can I get to Bogota?	Can you tell me how I can get to Bogota?
Where are my friends?	Could you tell me where my friends are?
When is the party?	I want to know when the party is.
Why did you leave the school?	I need to know why you left the school.
How does your brother drive?	I would like to know how your brother drives.
Who lives in that house?	I don't know who lives in that house.
Where is Ivan?	I wonder where Ivan is.
Where does Andres work?	Do you know where Andres works?
How can I find the yellow books?	Can you tell me how I can find the yellow book?
When will the game start?	Could you tell me when the game will start?
Why should I help my mom?	I want to know why I should help my mom.
Who broke the car?	I need to know who broke the car.
Where is the bathroom?	I would (I'd) like to know where the bathroom is.
Should we swim?	I don't know if we should swim.
When will my dad get here?	I wonder when my dad will get here*. "Arrive"
Who lived in the White House last year?	Do you know who lived in the White House last year?
When can we begin?	Can you tell me when we can begin?
Can I call my mother?	Could you tell me if I can call my mother?
Where will the game be?	I want to know where the game will be.
When should I arrive?	I need to know when I should arrive.
How can I be a better friend?	I would (I'd) like to know how I can be a better friend.

Exercises – Embedded Questions

Change the simple question into an embedded question and vice versa.

Where can I play?	I wonder...
What should we do?	Do you know...
	I need to know where the students are.
Why do we fight?	I don't know...
How should I do my homework?	Can you tell me...
When is the party?	I need to know...
Who is Luke's father?	I wonder...
	Do you know if I run in the park?
When is the mass?	I need to know...
What time is Frank's party?	I don't know...
Who loves me?	Could you tell me?
What time is it?	I'd like to know ...
Who can Harry help?	I wonder what time it is.
Can Harry help?	Do you know...
How should we travel?	I have to know...
Why would William win?	Could you tell me why William would win?
Who could come to the party?	Can you tell me...
What time is the movie?	I need to know...
Who can I go to the movie with?	I wonder...
Why should we fight?	Could you tell me...
	I don't know when the game was.

Module 8

Reported Speech

He Said, She Said

Guide 1 – Order of Objects

1. Many sentences include both direct and indirect objects.
2. The direct object is the person/thing that receives the action of the verb directly.

I buy a flower.

I give a flower.

3. The indirect object is the person/thing affected by the action of the verb, but not directly.

I buy a flower for Anita.

I give a flower to Anita.

4. I buy/give a flower (direct). I do not buy/give Anita (indirect). Anita is affected by the action.
5. English permits either the direct or indirect object to be positioned first.

- a. Case 1: [direct] + “to/for” + [indirect] – the preposition “to” / “for” must be included.

I buy a flower for Anita.

I give a flower to Anita.

- b. Case 2: [indirect] + [direct] – no preposition between the objects.

I buy Anita a flower.

I give Anita a flower.

Examples – Order of Objects

[Direct] + “to/for” + [Indirect]	[Indirect] + [direct]
I want to get a new bike for my son .	I want to get my son a new bike .
Please bring a drink to Sam.	Please bring Sam a drink.
My daughter played a song for me.	My daughter played me a song.
I should read a story to my baby.	I should read my baby a story.
I will send a text to the secretary.	I will send the secretary a text.
I can teach calculus to our students.	I can teach our students calculus.
We sang a song to the baby.	We sang the baby a song.
I wrote a letter to my parents.	I wrote my parents a letter.
My girlfriend made breakfast for me.	My girlfriend made me breakfast.
I think that you owe an explanation to me.	I think that you owe me an explanation.
You can show your homework to the teacher.	You can show the teacher your homework.
Promise everything to me!	Promise me everything!
I wouldn't refuse anything to her!	I wouldn't refuse her anything!
We will take some medicine to my mom.	We will take my mom some medicine.
Let's make an offer to the boss.	Let's make the boss an offer.
Can you build a house for me?	Can you build me a house?
My brother caught a butterfly for my sister.	My brother caught my sister a butterfly.
I will collect some money for you.	I will collect you some money.
He threw the ball to Player #33.	He threw Player #33 the ball.
I want to prepare dinner for you.	I want to prepare you dinner.
The teacher found a pen for the student.	The teacher found the student a pen.

Exercises – Order of Objects

Convert sentences between the two possible organizations of objects.

[Direct] + “to/for” + [Indirect]	[Indirect] + [direct]
Don't pass your problems to me!
	I ordered you a hamburger.
	Did Valeria buy me a Coke?
We are going to bake a cake for George.
Should I call a taxi for you?
	You can sell me a car, if you try.
Today, I will sing a love song to you.
	Please send me a message before you leave.
	Would you like me to cook you dinner?
Andres wrote a poem for his girlfriend.
	I'll buy you something in Canada.
Please show your new car to your dad.
Little Red Riding Hood took some food to her grandmother.
	Throw me the ball!
Penguins catch fish for their babies.
	Could you read me the text, please?
What have you brought for me?
We need to boil some water for mom.
Let's offer lunch to the workers.
	I've prepared you some questions.

Guide 2 – Say, Tell, Ask

1. Say = “Decir”

- a. Usually, “say” refers to exact words, which form the direct object.

I say hello.

- b. We can add an indirect object, but it is optional.

I say hello to Janel.

- c. Phrases with “say” are therefore always organized [direct] + “to” + [indirect].

2. Tell = contar/informar

- a. Usually, “tell” refers to information communicated to a person (the indirect object).

I tell my mom.

- b. We can add a direct object, but it is optional.

I tell my mom the time.

- c. Phrases with “tell” are therefore always organized [indirect] [direct].

3. “Ask” = Preguntar. It functions exactly as for “tell”.

I ask my mom. (Indirect object is required.)

I ask my mom the time. (Direct object is optional.)

4. “Say”, “tell”, and “ask” can be used with a relative pronoun – exactly as in Spanish.

Daniella said that she was happy.

Daniella told me where she lives.

Daniella asked me if I was sick.

Examples – Say, Tell, Ask

I'm saying hello to my friends.
Could you tell me your name?
I asked the tall girl her name.
Let's ask your mother if we can go.
Please say good morning to the teacher.
Can you tell me your plan?
The teacher told the class a story about the war.
I asked Andres if he had finished his homework.
I said that I was sorry.
Michael asked his friends what the problem was.
We are telling Carlos about the accident.
Don't ask me! I have no idea!
Did you say anything to the doctor?
Please ask the nurse about the medication.
Don't tell me your secrets. I don't want to know.
Have you asked Marcel where the dog is?
Can you say that again? *This expression means, "Please repeat."
So, you said something about Martin.
Have you told your friends that you can't come today?
Ask yourself what you can do for your country.
Did you tell Carlos that we would be late today?
Don't say anything bad to your parents.

Exercises – Say, Tell, Ask

Complete the sentences with the appropriate verb in the simple past tense.

Miguel _____ Angela that he was happy.
I _____ my friends where they live.
Did you _____ anything to your mom about the party?
I _____ hello to my brother yesterday.
We didn't _____ your mom that you had been drinking.
The media _____ a lot of lies about COVID 19.
Your parents _____ me why you weren't in class.
You _____ me no questions, so I _____ you no lies.
My friend _____ me what my favourite movie was.
My dad always _____ me a story before I went to bed.
Did you _____ the teacher when we will receive our marks?
The dog _____ "woof".
I _____ the teacher about the new materials.
You _____ your family where they should go.
I didn't _____ hello to Fritz. I don't like that guy.
Who _____ you where the dog was?
You didn't _____ good morning to your mom. Are you angry with her?
Did the witness _____ the police anything about the criminal?
Please _____ your dad if he is busy.
My brother _____ something impolite to his friend.
I _____ the secretary to arrive on time today.
Did you _____ the new student his name?

Guide 3 – Reported Speech Tenses

1. When using relative pronouns, when the “control verb” moves one step into the past, all dependent verbs also move one step into the past.

I think that Mark plays soccer.

I thought that Mark played soccer.

2. “Reported speech” expresses something that another person has said (usually in the past).

Mark, “I am happy.” (Present)

Mark said that he was happy. (Past simple)

- 3.

Tense	Mark says that...	Mark said that...
Simple present → Simple past	...he plays soccer.	...he played soccer.
Simple past → Past perfect	...he played soccer.	...he had played soccer.
Present perfect → Past perfect	...he has played soccer.	...he had played soccer.
Present continuous → Past continuous	...he is playing soccer.	...he was playing soccer.
Am/is/are going to → was/were going to	...he is going to play soccer.	...he was going to play soccer.
Will → Would	...he will play soccer.	...he would play soccer.
Can → Could	...he can play soccer.	...he could play soccer.

There are many verbs to report speech. Some of the most common are:

Agree → Agreed	Repeat → Repeated	Tell → Told
Answer → Answered	Report → Reported	Think → Thought
Explain → Explained	Say → Said	Understand → Understood
Feel → Felt

Examples – Reported Speech Tenses

I agree that you are very tall. → I agreed that you were very tall.
Steven answers that he was in Bogota. → Steven answered that he had been in Bogota.
We explain that we have been sick. → We explained that we had been sick.
Tatiana feels that she is losing money. → Tatiana felt that she was losing money.
I repeat that I am going to leave. → I repeated that I was going to leave.
Jim reports that he will help us. → Jim reported that he would help us.
John says that he can work hard. → John said that he could work hard.
I tell you that we live in Winnipeg. → I told you that we lived in Winnipeg.
I think that you said hello. → I thought that you had said hello.
You understand that you have been sad. → You understood that you had been sad.
I agree that I am losing the game. → I agreed that I was losing the game.
Frank answers that he is going to run. → Frank answered that he was going to run.
I explain that I will not think about her. → I explained that I would not think about her.
We feel that we can win. → We felt that we could win.
I repeat that I want to eat. → I repeated that I wanted to eat.
The pilots report that they used the computer. → The pilots reported that they had used the computer.
I say that I have found my dog. → I said that I had found my dog.
Sarah tells Jessica that she is working. → Sarah told Jessica that she was working.
Ian thinks that he is going to travel today. → Ian thought that he was going to travel today.
Marcel understands that he will not play. → Marcel understood that he would not play.
John says that he can find the car. → John said that he could find the car.
My dad tells me that he buys bread. → My dad told me that he bought bread.

Exercises 1 – Reported Speech Tenses

Change the sentence given into reported speech in the past tense.

"I can help you," agreed Jack. → Jack agreed that he could help me.
"I will forget Sarah," answered Jill. →
"They are going to be okay," explained Jeff. →
Jenni feels that she is getting lost. →
"I have been better," repeated Juliana. →
"We were in the bank," reported Sam.
Paola says that she is tired. →
Hermione tells me that she will come tomorrow. →
Leroy thinks that he can win. →
Alina understands that we are trying. →
"We are going to come home," agreed Alina. →
"I have worked in Girón," answered Bill. →
Phillip explains that he picked up the tests. →
Santiago feels that he is a good man. →
"I can travel tomorrow," repeated Tom. →
The pilot reports that the airplane is flying. →
"I have wanted to find you," said Jeremy. →
Angie tells me that she is happy today. →
The carpenter thinks he will be late. →
My parents understand that you can't come. →
Martin says that he will be travelling today. →

Exercises 2 – Reported Speech Tenses

Change the sentence given into reported speech in the past tense. Use “say”, “tell”, and “ask”.

Fred, “I like hamburgers.” → Fred said that he liked hamburgers.
Frank, “Joe, are you sick?” →
Sarah, “Where is my sister?”
Jenni, “Olaf, were you sick?”
Arnold, “I will be back.”
Felix, “Diana was here yesterday.”
Felix, “Diana, you were here yesterday.”
Felix, “Diana, were you here yesterday?”
Peter, “Captain Hook will be here in a moment!”
Leon, “I’m scared of everything!”
Karole, “Sharon, are you going to visit your mom?”
Mafer, “My mom has been working all day.”
The dog, “Can I have some meat?”
Socrates, “What did I drink?”
Frank, “Where was Joe yesterday?”
Joe, “Frank, I was in the house.”
Biff, “Who took my keys?”
Jerry, “No one can help me.”
Yosemite Sam, “I hate varmints!”
Bugs Bunny, “What is up, Doc?”
The Scarecrow, “I wish that I had a brain.”
The Roman Commander, “Who is Brian?”

Module 9

More About Perfect Tenses

Not So Simple, Anymore!

Guide 1 – Simple Past vs Present Perfect

Simple Past: We use the simple past tense to talk about actions that are completed or finished in the past – usually at a specific time.

I went to the store yesterday.

Present perfect: We use the present perfect for:

1. Events that occurred in an unknown or unspecified period of time. (Or did not happen.)
 - a. For example: “I have visited England.” We do not know (or say) when. Only, that the event has happened in the past.
 - b. “I haven’t visited England.” (The event did not happen at any point in time.)
 - c. “Have you ever* tried to eat fish?” *The adverb of frequency “ever” emphasises “aún una vez”.
2. Events that are not complete.
 - a. “I have lived in Bucaramanga since 2014.” (I started living in Bucaramanga in 2014, and am still living in Bucaramanga today.)
3. Events that occurred in a period of time that is open.
 - a. “I have already worked three hours today.” (Today is not finished.)
 - b. “I haven’t worked yet today.”
4. Happened very recently.
 - a. “Okay, I’ve (just)* finished my homework. Now what should we do?” *The word adverb of frequency “just” in this context means “apenas” or “Acabo de terminar mis tareas...”

We often ask a question in the present perfect and answer it in the simple past with an exact time.

Question: Have you written to your mother?

Answer: Yes, I wrote to her yesterday.

Examples – Simple Past vs. Present Perfect

I have been to France, but I have never been to Germany.
My sister has been in Bucaramanga for three weeks.
I have worked at Ecopetrol this year.
I have just asked the teacher to help us.
Have you ever helped your sister with her homework?
The passengers have sat in the plane for two hours.
This morning, I have visited the doctor and the dentist.
The kids have just arrived from school.
I have never talked to Alina.
My students have already said hello to me this morning.
This year, I've been to Hungary and Slovenia. Last year, I visited Paris.
Your flight has just left!
I've often talked to Alina.
Samantha has often done her hair in the bathroom.
I have always said that Marcel was sick.
I have known Bella for many years.
I have taken two pills (pastillas) today. I have to take two more.
I saw Harry yesterday.
I have always wanted a new car.
I found the bread before lunch.
I worked in Girón last year. Now, I work in San Gil.
Have you ever tried the chocolate cake?

Exercises – Simple Past vs. Present Perfect

Finish the sentence with the past simple or present perfect tense required.

I _____ my friends last night! (To need)
I _____ sick for three weeks. (To feel)
Your mother and I _____ to help you this year. (To want)
I _____ a doctor three years ago. (To become)
Your sister _____ the house an hour ago. (To leave)
My family _____ the car in the garage for a week. (To keep)
The concert _____ ! (To begin)
I _____ talked to Captain Smith since last year. (To talk / negative)
The pilots _____ the flight yet. (To start / negative)
_____ the crash last night? (To hear / you)
The team _____ in Santander, but never in Boyaca. (To play)
We _____ to Colombia in 2014, and we _____ here 4 years. (To move/To live)
I _____ broccoli. (To like / negative)
We _____ in God. (To believe / always)
The girls _____ an iguana before today! (To hold / negative)
I _____ anything to the party last week. (To bring / negative)
I _____ to my mother this year, but I will. (To write / negative)
The lion _____ any food for the babies today. (To provide / negative)
My parents _____ the dentist yesterday. (To pay)
_____ my mother yet? (To meet / you)
We _____ tomatoes with the sandwich this year, but we can. (To include / negative)

Guide 2 – The Past Perfect

1. The present perfect tense is actually a form of the past tense. The name “present perfect” refers to the auxiliary “to have” being used in the present tense.
2. The past perfect tense uses the same participle, but the auxiliary verb “to have” is in the past tense (“had”). The negative form often uses the contraction (“had not” → “hadn’t”).

“I have visited” → “I had visited”

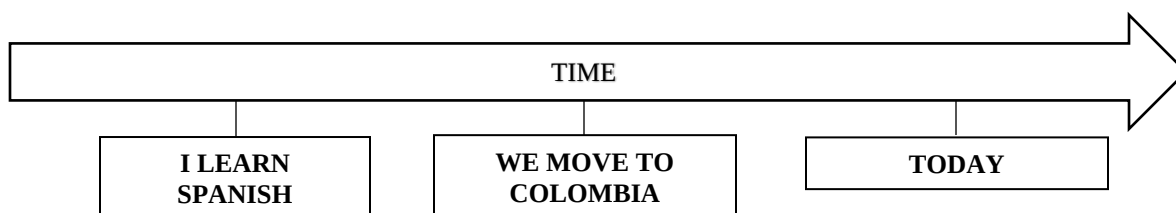

“I had visited.” → “Había visitado”

3. We use the past perfect together with the simple past to talk about events that happened before another past event. For example:

“When we moved to Colombia, I had learned Spanish.”

“Cuando nos mudamos a Colombia, ya había aprendido español.”

4. Using the past perfect establishes the relationship between those two separate times. The past perfect is a “narrative tense” because it helps us explain the relationship in a story.

Examples – The Past Perfect

I had studied English before I went to London.
I went to London after I had studied English.
When I ate dinner, I had already done my homework.
Bruno had said good night to his mother before he went to bed.
I met my friend Chris after I had studied in Paris.
Arnulfo arrived early today because he had forgotten to shower.
I had just thought about you when you walked into the house.
Sarah didn't come to the class because she had been sick all week.
I didn't look at the book, because I had wanted to ask you about it first.
I used the computer after I had found it in the library.
When you talked to your mother, I had already told her about the problem.
I had worked all weekend, so I was very tired last night.
We had needed help with the homework, so we asked our mother.
Janet hadn't wanted to become a problem, so she left the party early.
I had always kept the car in the house, but I put it in the street yesterday.
We started the class at 10:00, after Paola had arrived.
We started the class at 9:00 before Paola had arrived.
When Paola arrived, we had already started the class.
We had just started the class when Paola arrived.
We moved to Medellin because my father had found a new job there.
I had just written to my mother when I received her answer.
We had continued with the game when we noticed that William had not arrived.

Exercises – The Past Perfect

Create sentences using a verb in the simple present and another in the past perfect.

[illegible]

Guide 3 – The Future Perfect

1. In this guide, we will learn two simple extensions: the future and conditional perfect.
Remember, with the perfect tenses, we simply use the appropriate tense of “to have” + the past participle.

Tense	Form of “to have”	Example
Present perfect	Have/has	I have arrived at the airport.
Past perfect	Had	I had arrived when you called.
Future perfect	Will have	I will have arrived before 5:00.
Future conditional perfect	Would have	I would have arrived before 5:00.
		I could/may/might have played...

2. The future perfect describes an event that will be complete by a certain time limit. We often specify the time limit using a proposition as follows:

I will have arrived by 5:00. → Habré llegado a las 5:00. (“By” is very common here.)

I will have arrived before 5:00. → Habré llegado antes de las 5:00.

I will have arrived at 5:00. → Habré llegado a las 5:00.

I will have arrived in 3 hours. → Habré llegado en 3 horas.

I will have arrived 3 hours from now. → Habré llegado dentro de 3 horas.

I will have arrived when you finish the job. → Habré llegado cuando termine el trabajo.

I will have arrived by the time you finish the job. → Habré llegado cuando termines el trabajo.

3. Note that we can write the sentence in the reverse order, adding a comma:

I will have arrived by tomorrow. → By tomorrow, I will have arrived.

4. We usually avoid using “going to” with the future perfect, since we use “will” to make future predictions or commitments.

I am going to have arrived by 5:00. (Understandable but unusual.)

5. Finally, the negative and interrogative forms are exactly what we would expect.

Question: Will you have finished the game by 8:30?

Negative: We won’t have finished the game by 8:30.

Examples – The Future Perfect

Before class, I will have done my homework.
I will have said hello to all the children by 10:00.
At 5:00, we will have gone to the airport.
My father will have made lunch by 1:00.
Ten minutes from now, we will have taken the money.
When you visit the zoo, I will already* have seen all the animals. *Commonly used in future perfect.
By the time you come to Bucaramanga, we will already have left.
I will have looked at the house as soon as you show it to me.
The girls will have used the computer before the teacher arrives.
By 10:00 tomorrow, I will have found a girlfriend.
At bedtime tomorrow, your father will have given me the money.
In ten minutes, I will have told you everything that I know.
Two years from now, I will have worked for three companies.
When you read this message, I will have already called you.
The boys won't have arrived at the office by the time the boss calls.
As soon as we finish the meal, I will have tried all the food.
Before you tell me the answer, I will have asked everyone in the class.
By 10:00 tomorrow, I won't have needed the money.
Will the patient have felt sick at lunchtime tomorrow?
In two years, I will have become a doctor.
Six months from now, your parents will have left Bogota.
When the teacher arrives, we will have begun the class.

Exercises – The Future Perfect

Create sentences using the verb and preposition or prepositional phrase given.

	Before / help
	By / talk
	At / start
	By / show
	From now / hear
	When / play
	By the time / run
	As soon as / move
	Before / bring
	By / happen
	At / write
	By / provide
	From now / lose
	When / pay
	By the time / meet
	As soon as / learn
	Before / change
	Before / understand
	By / watch
	At / follow
	By / stop

Guide 4 – The Perfect Continuous

1. We use the present simple tense to express what we were doing at a certain time in the past.

Tense	Simple perfect	Perfect continuous
Past	I had played. (Yo había jugado.)	I had been playing. (Yo había estado jugando.)
Present	I have played. (Yo he jugado.)	I have been playing. (Yo he estado jugando.)
Future	I will have played. (Yo habré jugado.)	I will have been playing. (Yo habré estado jugando.)

2. The past perfect continuous describes an event that started and ended in the past.

When my parents arrived in Bucaramanga, I had been living here for 5 years.

3. The present perfect continuous describes an event that was occurring at an unspecified previous time or is unfinished in the present:

I have been living in Bucaramanga since 2014.

4. The future perfect continuous describes an event that will be occurring at a certain future time.

By 2019, I will have been living in Bucaramanga for* 6 years.

5. It is very common to use “for” (similar to “durante”) in this context, because we often use the future perfect continuous to talk about a predicted duration of time.

Examples – The Perfect Continuous

I had been studying English before I went to London.
I went to London after I had been studying English for two months.
When my mother called me for dinner, I had already been doing my homework.
Bruno had been saying good night to his mother before he went to bed.
I had been studying in Paris when I met my friend Chris.
When Arnulfo arrived today, he had been walking in the rain.
I had just been thinking about you when you walked into the house.
Sarah didn't come to the class because she had been feeling sick all week.
By next year, I will have been studying for 2 years.
We had been reading in the library when I found the computer.
When you talked to your mother, I had already been speaking to her all morning.
I have been working all weekend, so I am very tired today.
We have been looking for help with the homework today.
Janet hasn't been arriving at the class this week.
I have just been writing to my father.
We have been learning English this year.
Avianca has been including dinner service for many years.
I will have been thinking about you all day. (In this case, the dependent clause is implied.)
Come in! The class have been wanting to meet you!
I have been changing in the bedroom this year, but I can also change in the bathroom.
I had been understanding the teacher until he started talking about philosophy.
By tonight, I will have been watching "The Godfather" for three hours!

Exercises – The Perfect Continuous

Create sentences using the present, past, and future perfect continuous.

[illegible]

Guide 5 – Already and Yet

1. These two words are commonly used with perfect tenses.
2. Already: Indicates that the verb occurred earlier than the time referenced by the sentence. It is positioned as an adverb of frequency. Logically, it is usually used in affirmative sentences.

Present perfect: I have already played soccer.

Past perfect: When you called, I had already played soccer.

Future perfect: When you call, I will have already played soccer.

3. Yet: Indicates that the event has not occurred at the time referenced by the sentence (but might occur later). It is used only in negative sentences and questions, and comes at the end.

Present perfect: I haven't played soccer yet.

Past perfect: When you called, I hadn't played soccer yet.

Future: When you call, I won't have played soccer yet.

4. We usually put the word "yet" at the end of the perfect clause. It is also possible (although less common) to do the reverse. In this case, we normally put the "yet" after the perfect clause, in the middle of the sentence.

I hadn't played soccer yet, when you called.

Module 10

The Causative

The Devil Made Me Do It

Guide 1 – The Active Causative

We use the causative when we cause (causar) a person (or a thing) to do something.

In Spanish, for example,

Hago que Manuela trabaje.
Le digo a Manuela que trabaje.

Spanish uses the subjunctive mood for the causative. In English, we use the form:

Subject	Causative verb	Person who acts	Action (verb)	Complement
I	Ask	Manuela	To work.	N/A
I	Help	Manuela	work	N/A

Notice that the verb “ask” uses the action verb in the infinitive (it includes “to”) but “help” does not.

Verbs that use the infinitive (“to”)	Verbs that do not use the infinitive (no “to”)
Ask = Pedir	Help = Ayudar
Allow = Permitir	Let = Dejar / No Impedir / Permitir
Get = Conseguir que	Make = Obligar
Tell = Ordenar	Have = Obligar (Uncommon, formal)
Want = Querer
Need = Necesitar

Most verbs use the infinitive. The rule is the same as for gerunds in Level A2. If the verb implies that the main action has not started, then we use the infinitive. If the verb implies that the main action has started, then we do not use the infinitive.

For example, if I help someone do an action, then the action has started. If I want them to do it, the action might not have started.

Note that the tense of the main verb does not affect the rest of the sentence (nor the negative):

I want you to go. → I don't want you to go. → I will want you to go. → I wanted you to go.

Examples – The Active Causative

Please ask the teacher to help you.
My mother doesn't allow me to drink whisky.
I can get Samantha to work today.
I will tell my friends to play basketball.
I want you to go to Paris.
I need my sister to buy bread.
I always help Sebastian finish his homework.
Don't let me die!
You can't make me love you!
Should I ask the waiter to come?
Does your father allow you to dance with Allan?
I told the dog to stay.
The pilots want the flight attendants to serve the drinks.
My parents need me to return home tonight.
Can you help me write to my mother?
My friends never let me get sad.
The teacher had the children sit on the floor.
Angelica asked Adriana to eat lunch with her.
The teacher didn't allow the class to leave before 4:00.
My father told me to talk to Santiago.
I want doctor to come quickly.
The doctor needs the nurse to come quickly.

Exercises – The Active Causative

Create an active causative sentence in any tense using the words given.

Ask / me / go → Did Alina ask me to go to the movies?
Help / you / be
Allow / us / do
Let / Martin / say
Get / Gerald / make Make / Daniela / think
Tell / my friends / take
Want / the team / see
Need / the teacher / come
Have / Harold / look
Ask / Rodolfo / use
Help / the girls / find
Allow / the farmer / give
Let / my brother / work
Get / William / call
Make / Oscar / try
Tell / Paola / ask
Want / Vanessa / feel
Need / the students / become
Have / the dog / leave
Let / the cat / put

Guide 2 – The Passive Causative

Sometimes we do not know (or it is not important) who did an action... only that it was done. In this case we use the “passive” causative. This is not common in Spanish, and there is no perfect translation. Approximately:

I had the car washed. → Ordené que el carro fuera lavado.

In this case, we do not know (or it is not important) who washed the car. The important factor is that the car is washed. The passive causative has the form:

Subject	Causative verb (“have” or “get”)	Direct Object	Action (In Past Participle)
I	Get	Dinner	Made.
I	Have	The car	Washed.

Only 2 causative verbs exist; “get” and “have”. “Get” is more common, while “have” is more formal.

Note: Again, we can use any tense of the causative verb, or a question or negative.

I get the car washed every day. (Present)

I will get the car washed tomorrow. (Future)

I got the car washed yesterday. (Past)

I didn't get the car washed yesterday. (Negative)

Did you get the car washed? (Interrogative)

Examples – The Passive Causative

I will get my hair done before the party.
My mother had a bed made for my sister when she was young.
My parents got the dog found by the police.
This story is very important. We will have it told to every new class.
I will have the customer called immediately.
We will have the car kept in the garage.
The teacher got the children helped by the assistant.
Let's get this party started!
I will have my work shown in an exhibition.
I can have your question heard by the president.
My mother got the sofa moved beside the window.
I had the car brought from the farm to Bucaramanga.
I had the letter written by my secretary.
I had the doctor paid yesterday.
The president had the client met at the airport.
I got the service included.
I didn't like the song, so I had it changed.
My brother kept getting lost, so I had him followed.
The party was too crazy, so I had it stopped.
I got the car bought by my father.
We had the dinner served at 7:00.
I had my house built in Bucaramanga.

Exercises – The Passive Causative

Now it's your turn. Create a new sentence using the verb given and any tense or pronouns.

	(to do)
	(to make)
	(to find)
	(to tell)
	(to call)
	(to keep)
	(to help)
	(to start)
	(to show)
	(to hear)
	(to move)
	(to bring)
	(to write)
	(to send)
	(to kill)
	(to sell)
	(to return)
	(to explain)
	(to drive)
	(to break)
	(to choose)
	(to finish)

Module 11

Advanced Adjectives

Tell Me About It!

Guide 1 – Noun-Adjective Pairs

Like Spanish, English often uses a very similar word as a noun, verb, and adjective. For example:

Verb → Noun → Adjective

Jugar → Juego → Juguetón

To play → A play → Playful

This guide will focus on adjective/noun combinations. You do not need to predict the exact form of the noun or adjective, but it is very important to recognize an unknown adjective or noun.

English		Spanish
Noun	Adjective	Sustantivo	Adjetivo
Health	Healthy	Salud	Saludable
Bravery	Brave	Valentía	Valiente
Happiness	Happy	Felicidad	Feliz
Sadness	Sad	Tristeza	Triste
Beauty	Beautiful	Belleza	Bella
Ugliness	Ugly	Fealdad	Feo
Strength	Strong	Fortaleza	Fuerte
Color	Colorful	Color	Lleno de color
Talent	Talented	Talento	Talentoso
Foolishness	Foolish	Tontería	Tonto
Intelligence	Intelligent	Inteligencia	Inteligente
Caution	Cautious	Precaución	Precavido / Cuidadoso
Wisdom	Wise	Sabiduría	Sabia
Enthusiasm	Enthusiastic	Entusiasmo	Entusiasmado
Laziness	Lazy	Pereza	Perezoso
Carelessness	Careless	Descuido	Descuidado

Examples – Noun-Adjective Pairs

I am in excellent health. I am very healthy.
I know you are brave. I don't doubt your bravery.
The girls are so happy. Their happiness is amazing.
Anya is very sad. Her sadness is terrible.
You are so beautiful. Everyone talks about your beauty.
Quasimodo was very ugly. His ugliness was legendary.
Samson was a strong man. His strength could destroy a palace.
That shirt is very colorful. It has so many beautiful colors!
All the teachers talk about Sarah's talent. She is one of the most talented students in the school.
Her actions were very foolish. Such foolishness is hard to believe.
She is a very intelligent student. Her intelligence could take her to Washington.
Be very cautious with the animals. Don't forget to use caution in the forest.
Solomon had a lot of wisdom. He was very wise.
You are so enthusiastic – I love your enthusiasm.
The student was extremely lazy in class. His laziness brought him very low marks.
Why are you so careless? Your carelessness could get us killed!

Exercises 1 – Noun-Adjective Pairs

Indicate the correct word in the following sentences.

If you give me your heart, I will never be (carelessness / careless) with it.
I love your (enthusiasm / enthusiastic) for your job!
Professional military personnel are usually very (caution / cautious) with firearms.
I have heard a lot of (foolishness / foolish) in my job.
Business suits are usually not very (color / colorful).
Poverty is a very (ugliness / ugly) thing to see.
There is a lot of (sadness / sad) in the world, but also a lot of joy.
A (health / healthy) lifestyle does not include smoking.
The Bible suggests that (laziness / lazy) people do not deserve to eat.
Unfortunately, we often acquire (wisdom / wise) immediately after we need it.
I am probably not as (intelligence / intelligent) as some people think, but I am very studious.
Some psychologists say that developing a (talent / talented) requires 10,000 hours of practice.
The song “(Strength / strong) and Honor” was composed by Hans Zimmer.
Be careful with (beautiful / beauty) women. They often inspire a lot of (craziness / crazy) in men.
If you’re (happiness / happy) and you know it, clap your hands.
Per the old saying, “Early to bed and early to rise makes a man happy, (health / healthy) and wise.

Exercise 2 – Noun-Adjective Pairs

Use the noun and adjective forms in two separate sentences.

	Health
	Bravery
	Happiness
	Sadness
	Beauty
	Ugliness
	Strength
	Color
	Talent
	Foolishness
	Intelligence
	Caution
	Wisdom
	Enthusiasm
	Laziness
	Carelessness

Guide 2 – Common Prefixes and Suffixes

Similar to Spanish, adding a few letters to the beginning (called a prefix) or end (called a suffix) of a word changes its meaning. There are many prefixes and suffixes in English, but we will look at the most common ones.

Prefix/suffix	Meaning	Example	Translation
Un- In- Im- Ir- Dis-	Not	Countable / Uncountable Exact / Inexact Polite / Impolite Responsible / Irresponsible Honest / Dishonest	Contable / Incontable Exacto / Inexacto Cortés / Descortés Responsable / Irresponsable Honesto / Dishonesto
Mis-	Incorrectly	Understood / Misunderstood	Entendido / Malentendido
Re-	Again	Created → Recreated Done → Redone	Creado → Recreado Hecho → Hecho de nuevo
-less	Without	Penny (noun) → Penniless Fear (noun) → Fearless	Centavo → Sin un centavo Miedo → Sin miedo
-ful	Full of	Fear (noun) → Fearful	Miedo → Temeroso
-able / -ible	Can be done	Love (verb) → Loveable Work (verb) → Workable Comfort (noun) → Comfortable	Amor → Adorable Funcionar → Factible Confort → Confortable

It is not always possible to predict the exact prefix or suffix that a word will use. Nevertheless, by recognizing the principal prefixes and suffixes, it is usually easy to understand what a new word means.

Examples – Common Prefixes and Suffixes

My sister is very happy, but I am un happy.
Paul's answer is correct, but Tim's answer is in correct.
There is no perfect person, and there are many im perfect people.
In general, Colombians are very religious, but Germans are usually ir religious.
It is important to feel empowered. No one should feel dis empowered.
I have tried to guide him. If he is mis guided, I cannot do anything more.
Did you fill the car today? I will re fill it tomorrow. (Verb)
I am lost. I feel help less .
My brother is a very care ful man.
The car is damaged, but don't worry, it is repair able .
My sister is very un help ful today.
I don't believe your story. It is completely in credible.
I don't believe your story. It is very im probable.
A physical process is revers ible , but a chemical process can be ir revers ible .
My telephone is completely dis charged. I need to find a charger.
When can we re play the game? (verb)
Don Quixote was a hope less romantic.
Arturo didn't say "thank you". He's so shame less .
That's a beautiful shirt. It's very color ful !
It is very doubt ful that Rachel would come.
Do you ever feel un loved?
I am in cap able of understanding your message.

Exercises – Common Prefixes and Suffixes

Choose the logical adjective.

I think this train goes to King's Cross Station, but I might have (misread / unread) the schedule.
Usain Bolt runs very easily. He makes it appear (miseffort / effortless).
If glass breaks, it is usually not (rerepair / repairable).
Coca-Cola and French fries are (unhealthy / mishealthy) for lunch.
I failed my exam. I have to (writeful / rewrite) it next week.
Driving in Colombia can be extremely (stressless / stressful).
Could you repeat your question, please? I think that I (misheard / disheard) you.
Hernan Cortez was a (unfear / fearless) conquistador.
Don't touch that glass! It's very (breakful / breakable)!
I don't want to talk about my history. It is (relevantful / irrelevant) to my present situation.
After World War II, Japan had to be significantly (rebuilt / builtful).
Please be (careless / careful) with the baby. She's very delicate.
Listen carefully. I don't want you to (ununderstand / misunderstand) me.
My parents were trapped in a (loveless / mislove) relationship.
I love my little baby. She's cute and (kissful / kissable)!
That movie was terrible. It was totally (misinteresting / uninteresting).
I accidentally deleted my résumé. Now I have to (retype / untype) everything!
This meat is delicious. It's juicy and (reflavor / flavorful)!
I don't know where my cellphone is. I think that I (misplaced / replaced) it on the bus.
I can't believe you lost your cellphone. Are you always so (luckful / luckless)?
This food is disgusting. It isn't (eatless / eatable).
I can't understand the problem. It's (inexplicable / explicable).

Guide 3 – Compound Adjectives

1. We can place two or more adjectives before a noun to describe multiple characteristics.

“I am reading a big red book.” (The book is both big and red.)

2. We can also use an intensifier to modify an adjective before a noun.

“I am reading a very big book.” (The book is very big.)

3. However, sometimes we use two separate words to create a single descriptor.

“I am reading a 150-page book.”

The words “150” and “page” form a single descriptor, indicated with a hyphen (-) between them.

4. This type of adjective is often created using participle adjectives (ending in “-ing” or “-ed”).

“God is an all-knowing being.” (Present participle: God performs the action “to know”.)

“The little-known battle occurred in 1900.” (Past participle: the battle receives the action “to know”.)

5. We also use compound adjectives to express time, quantity, weight, distance, and other measurements. Note that when we form a compound adjective with a number and unit, we do not use the units in the plural.

“I have a 3-year-old child.” → Not: “I have a 3-years-old child.”

Examples – Compound Adjectives

The often-forgotten students felt sad.
My 8-hour class is very tiring!
The 50-kilo dog eats a lot of food.
Welcome aboard this 300-mile flight to New York.
The 1-litre bottle of whisky costs $50.
I live in a well-built house.
Bucaramanga has many middle-class citizens.
Jennifer is a very self-confident girl.
Shakespeare is a well-known author.
We had a great, last-minute idea.
That boy has a crazy-looking face.
Your homework is very well-done!
There are many badly-driven cars in this country.
My computer isn't up-to-date in 2018.
We have ice-cold beer in the refrigerator...
...and red-hot empanadas.

Exercises – Compound Adjectives

Create sentences using the compound adjectives given.

	19-year-old
	4-month-old
	200-pound
	10-litre
	40-mile
	6-storey (piso)
	Sugar-free
	Long-haired
	Full-time
	Part-time
	Much-needed
	20-page
	Well-designed
	Densely-populated
	Steam-powered
	Smoke-free

Guide 4 – Impersonal Expressions

1. Impersonal expressions are common in Spanish and formal/technical English. In general, conversational English prefers active verbs to impersonal expressions.

“Es necesario que tú ayudes.” → “Tú necesitas ayudar.”

2. Impersonal expressions can use a relative pronoun or an infinitive verb.

a. (Relative pronoun): “Es necesario que tú ayudes.” → “It is necessary that you help.”

b. (Infinitive): “Es necesario ayudar.” → “It is necessary to help.”

3. Important: “es” → “it is”. Subjects can be omitted in Spanish, but never in English.
4. Expressions with relative pronouns use the verb in the simple present. (“...that you help.”)
5. We can use various relative pronouns (not only “that”).

“It is great when you arrive on time.” → “Es genial cuando llegas a tiempo.”

6. Expressions with the infinitive use the verb in the infinitive. (“to” + verb).

Examples – Impersonal Expressions

It is great that you want to help. (Relative pronoun)
It is important to help. (Infinitive)
It is not healthy to sleep after eating. (Infinitive)
It is not helpful to be angry with the teacher. (Infinitive)
It is tiring to teach more than eight hours. (Infinitive)
It is tiring when we teach more than eight hours. (Relative pronoun)
It is noble to fight for our country. (Infinitive)
It is terrible to fight with our parents. (Infinitive)
It is obvious that you didn't study. (Relative pronoun)
It is crazy to write a test without studying. (Infinitive)
It is dangerous to drive after drinking alcohol. (Infinitive)
It is dangerous that Steven went to the store alone. (Relative pronoun)
It is interesting that your parents are not here. (Relative pronoun)
It is more relaxed when the boss is not in the office. (Relative pronoun)
It is safer where we live today. (Relative pronoun)
It is safer to live in Bucaramanga (Infinitive)

Exercises – Impersonal Expressions

Create sentences using the adjective and infinitive or relative pronoun given.

Fun / when Sad / that
Crazy / infinitive
Careless / infinitive
Smart / that
Foolish / infinitive
A good idea / infinitive
Unusual / infinitive
Embarrassing / when
A terrible plan / infinitive
Intelligent / infinitive
Necessary / infinitive
Dangerous / infinitive
Helpful / that Harmful / when
Healthy / infinitive

Module 12

Advanced Pronouns

I Can Do It Myself!

Guide 1 – Indefinite Pronouns

- For people, places, or things with an unknown quantity or identity, we use the prefixes “every”, “some”, “any”, and “no”.

	Person (Formal)	Person (Informal)	Place	Thing
All	Everyone	Everybody	Everywhere	Everything
Partial (Affirm)	Someone	Somebody	Somewhere	Something
Partial (Neg)	Anyone	Anybody	Anywhere	Anything
Absence (Zero)	No one	Nobody	Nowhere	Nothing

- Indefinite pronouns are always used as a 3rd person singular (even if they refer to multiples).

CORRECT: Everyone is here. / Everyone loves me.

INCORRECT: Everyone are here. / Everyone love me.

- Indefinite pronouns can be used as subject or objects.

Someone loves me. (Subject)

I love someone. (Object)

- Remember that in general (but not always!):

- Affirmative expressions:

Every	I have everything .	Yo tengo todo .
Some	I have something .	Yo tengo algo .

- Negative expressions:

Any	I don't have anything .	Yo no tengo nada .
No	I have nothing .

- Interrogative expressions:

Any	Do you have anything ?	¿Tú tienes algo ?
-----	-------------------------------	--------------------------

- “Any” as “cualquier”

Any	Anything can happen.	Cualquier cosa puede suceder.
-----	-----------------------------	--------------------------------------

- We can also form a question using “some” when the speaker already suspects that a specific person/place/thing exists, and wants to confirm. For example, if a person looks sad:

“Is something wrong?”

Examples – Indefinite Pronouns

Everyone is angry that the flight arrived late.
I have nothing in my hand.
My car isn't anywhere.
Nobody is safe in Iraq.
No one can help me. And I can't help anyone.
Is anybody working today?
I know no one in the store.
Everywhere is home!
No one wants to die, but everyone does, eventually.
Did Mother Teresa love everyone?
Do your friends want anything?
Can anyone explain the problem?
I have nobody in the house right now.
Everyone is in class today.
Can I leave my jacket somewhere? (I believe that I probably can.)
Yes, you can put it anywhere. (en cualquier lado)

Exercises 1 – Indefinite Pronouns

Complete the sentence using the logical pronoun.

You should come to the party! _____ one who is important will be there!
I'm sorry, I don't know _____ thing about your family.
You can put your jacket on the table, sofa, or bed. _____ where is okay.
Has _____ body seen my car?
_____ one is in the house. The last person left 2 hours ago.
Fritz knew that he put his cellphone _____ where in the house, but he couldn't find it.
I think there's _____ thing bothering my cat. She looks sick.
Grass is a common plant on Earth. It is found on every continent. It's _____ where!
Probably, _____ body would say that it's easy to work in Colombia. It's very hard!
There is _____ thing in the metal box. It is empty.
There isn't _____ one alive today who was born in the 1800s.
Can _____ body tell me the time?
I can't find my dog. She's _____ where!
Today, I just hate _____ thing. I need a vacation from my terrible life.
_____ where, under the rainbow, skies are blue.
_____ body in university should know that $1+1=2$.

Exercises 2 – Indefinite Pronouns

Create sentences using the indefinite pronoun and position indicated.

	Everyone / subject
	No one / object
	Something / subject
	Anywhere / object
	Everybody / object
	Anywhere / object
	Somebody / subject
	No one / subject
	Everything / object
	Nowhere / subject
	Everyone / object
	Anything / subject
	Anywhere / subject
	Somebody / object
	Everywhere / object
	Nowhere / subject

Guide 2 – Reflexive Pronouns

1. English does not have an equivalent to the Spanish reflexive pronouns “me”, “te”, etc. We say:

“Yo me lavo las manos.” → “Yo lavo mis manos.”

2. Most personal verbs like “shower”, “wake up” almost always apply to the same subject:

“Yo me baño.” → “I shower.”

“Él se afeita.” → “He shaves.”

3. However, some transitive verbs (verbs that require an object) can apply to many different objects or people. For example, “to hit”. The subject can hit many things or people. When the subject and object of a verb are the same, we use the reflexive pronoun.

Subject Pronoun	Object Pronoun	Reflexive Pronoun	Example
I	Me	Myself	I hit myself.
You	You	Yourself (Singular) Yourselves (Plural)	You hit yourself. You hit yourselves.
He	Him	Himself	He hits himself.
She	Her	Herself	She hits herself.
It	It	Itself	It hits itself.
We	Us	Ourselves	We hit ourselves.
They	Them	Themselves	They hit themselves.

4. The reflexive pronoun can replace the direct or indirect objects.

I cut myself. (Direct object)

I tell myself the truth. (Implies, “I tell the truth to myself.”) (Indirect object)

5. We also often use “by” + reflexive pronoun to indicate “alone” (“solo”).

“I am eating by myself.” → “Estoy comiendo solo.”

Examples – Reflexive Pronouns

I was playing with a knife, and I cut myself.
After your shower, you should dry yourself.
I am going to teach myself Spanish.
The enemy soldier killed himself to avoid capture.
I would like to introduce [presentar] myself. My name is James.
I accidentally hurt myself with the car.
Don't blame yourself. It wasn't your fault.
Please help yourself to an empanada. (Note: This is an unusual usage of the reflexive pronoun. "To help yourself" means to take.
The girls prepared themselves for the new school year.
Franz really enjoyed himself at the party.
We gave ourselves a great birthday gift.
Fabian was looking at himself in the mirror.
What are you bringing to the party? I'm bringing myself to the party.
The actor is listening to himself on the radio.
You can't play soccer by yourself. (Alone)
Ray and Gil built the house by themselves. (Alone)

Exercises 1 – Reflexive Pronouns

Complete the sentence with the logical reflexive pronoun.

You kids be careful with the tools. I don't want you to hurt _____!
The dog accidentally hit _____ with a ball.
There is intense debate about Jeffrey Epstein and if he killed _____.
My mom found _____ lost in a new city.
Don't play with that knife. You might cut _____.
I don't need your help. I can finish the project by _____.
Suicide is a human thing. No other animal would deliberately kill _____.
After my parents moved to Florida, my sister and I lived by _____ in the house.
The children were playing with the stove and burned _____.
Work faster! This project isn't going to finish _____.
To save on transportation costs, my crazy uncle sent _____ to Bogota by post.
The food is free today, you can go ahead and help _____!
These hamburgers are delicious. They pretty much sell _____.
You and Jeff did excellent work today. You should be proud of _____!
Sarah worked very hard to put _____ through university.
My brother lives by _____ in an enormous house.

Exercises 2 – Reflexive Pronouns

Now it's your turn. Create sentences using the reflexive pronoun given.

	Myself
	Himself
	Ourselves
	Herself
	Yourselves
	Itself
	Herself
	Yourself
	Myself
	Themselves
	Himself
	Itself
	Ourselves
	By yourself
	By herself
	By myself

Guide 3 – Reciprocal Pronouns

1. We use the reciprocal pronouns to indicate that a group of people (or objects) performed the same action, at the same time, that affected each of them in the same way. For example, if you are talk with someone, they are also talking with you. There are only two reciprocal pronouns:

“Each other” – 2 actors

“One another” – 3 or more actors

2. Using reciprocal pronouns allows us to speak more efficiently. For example:

“Becky talked with Sandy, and Sandy talked with Becky.” → “Becky and Sandy talked with each other.”

“Sam hit Biff. Biff hit Fred. Fred hit Sam.” → “Sam, Biff, and Fred hit one another.”

3. “One another” is becoming less common in English. Many speakers use “each other” for any number of subjects.

Sam, Biff, and Fred hit each other.