Miguel Angel Parra Cabrera | B2 Level | Confidential

Prepared by: Coordination | Based on: B1 Final Exam (11/02/2026) + B2 Midterm (20/04/2026) + Daily Self-Assessments (March-April 2026)

EXAM SCORES

Area	B1 Final (Feb 11)	B2 Midterm (Apr 20)
Listening	16.5/20 (82.5%)	18/20 (90%) - strong comprehension
Reading	21/25 (84%)	27/30 (90%) - detailed with text evidence
Writing	16.5/30 (55%)	19.5/30 (65%) - opinion essay with structure
Speaking	NOT EVALUATED	Pending - strong per coordination observation

Note: B1 Final total was 54/75 (72%) — speaking was never evaluated. B2 Midterm (without speaking): 64.5/80 = 80.6%. All areas improved: Listening +7.5%, Reading +6%, Writing +10%.

WHAT MIGUEL HAS IMPROVED (B1 to B2)

Miguel IS at a B2 level. The evidence below shows clear, measurable progress from B1 to B2. The remaining errors (prepositions, modals, noun/adjective confusion) are common at B2 and are exactly what structured correction activities are designed to fix.

Writing Complexity: From Narrative to Argumentation

B1: Wrote a simple narrative ("My experience in Argentina") — told a story in chronological order.

B2: Wrote an opinion essay ("Does technology make life easier or more stressful?") with introduction, arguments FOR, counter-arguments AGAINST, and a conclusion. This is a significant jump in cognitive and linguistic complexity.

Advanced Connectors

B1: Used basic connectors: "so", "later", "also", "and".

B2: Uses sophisticated connectors: "However", "On the other hand", "In conclusion", "Thanks to that", "At the same time". These are B2-level discourse markers.

Reading Comprehension Depth

B1: Answered multiple choice correctly (selecting from options).

B2: Answers open-ended questions with detailed responses, cites evidence from the text, and gives personal opinions with reasoning. Example: "I think that remote work is a positive change because the people can find a job more easy..."

Listening Comprehension

B1: 82.5% — already strong.

B2: Correctly answered 10 open-ended questions about a complex topic (studying abroad). Captured details like "she wanted to do a master", "watching movies and talking with people", "don't be afraid to take a risk." Comprehension is solid.

Vocabulary Range

B1: Basic vocabulary — work, school, food, family.

B2: Uses words like "confidence", "occasionally", "investigate", "refrigerator", "electronic devices", "advances", "specialized", "research", "creativity". Significant vocabulary growth.

Ability to Express Opinions

B1: Could narrate events but rarely gave opinions or reasons.

B2: States opinions clearly with supporting arguments: "I think that remote work is a positive change because..." and counter-arguments: "However, the technology is a risk also..." This is a core B2 skill.

Self-Awareness and Commitment

B1: No self-assessment data available.

B2: 18 daily self-assessments completed (March-April). Consistently identifies areas to improve: "improve my speaking", "practice my vocabulary", "improve my listening", "practice my pronunciation". Shows self-directed learning attitude.

Sustained Writing Length

B1: Narrative was approximately 120 words.

B2: Opinion essay is approximately 200+ words with multiple paragraphs. Can sustain a longer, more complex written argument.

Counter-Argumentation

B1: Did not attempt to argue both sides of anything.

B2: Successfully presents both sides: "The technology makes our lives easier..." then "However, the technology is a risk also, the children can access to a thousand of bad things..." This is a critical B2 skill — acknowledging complexity.

Text Evidence Usage

B1: Answered from memory or general knowledge.

B2: Quotes directly from reading passages: "The author wrote: "the workplace is no longer a fixed location but a flexible concept." This shows academic reading skills.

WHAT STILL NEEDS WORK (3 Specific Areas)

These three areas are common B2-level errors. They do NOT mean Miguel is not B2 — they mean he needs targeted correction to reach B2+. These are exactly the errors that structured activities like "Correct the Teacher" are designed to eliminate.

1. PREPOSITIONS

- "depends of" should be "depends on"
- "thanks of that" should be "thanks to that"
- "specialized for medicine" should be "specialized in medicine"
- "about to live alone" should be "about living alone"
- "enter to the US" should be "enter the US"
- "for do all our tasks" should be "to do all our tasks"

These errors appear in BOTH the B1 final AND the B2 midterm. Preposition errors have no rule-based shortcut — they only get fixed through immediate correction in real time whenever they occur.

2. MODAL VERB STRUCTURES

- "could did the master" should be "could do the master"
- "could found many virus" should be "could find many viruses"
- "had to used learn" should be "had to learn"
- "he had studying" should be "he had been studying"

Modal + base verb is a fundamental rule. These errors suggest Miguel knows the modals but has not internalized the pattern. Repetitive correction ("No. Listen. Could DO, not could DID.") is the fix.

3. NOUN vs ADJECTIVE CONFUSION

- "learnt to be patience" should be "learnt to be patient" (adjective, not noun)
- "lost her afraid" should be "lost her fear" (noun, not adjective)
- "the people was less about with did" — unclear, likely noun/adjective confusion

This is exactly what B2 Module 11 (Advanced Adjectives: Noun-Adjective Pairs) teaches. Health/healthy, bravery/brave, patience/patient. The module exists precisely for this error.

WHICH CLASS ACTIVITIES FIX YOUR SPECIFIC ERRORS

Each of your errors has a specific activity designed to fix it. These activities are NOT random — they target your exact pattern:

Your Error	Activity (B2 Class #)	How It Fixes Your Specific Error
Prepositions "depends of", "specialized for", "enter to the US"	Conversation correction - every class Correct the Teacher - Classes 16, 17, 18 Mega CTT - Class 19 (15 errors, all modules)	Preposition errors have no shortcut — only exposure to correction: "No. Listen. Depends ON, not depends of." The Class 19 mega Correct the Teacher story is specifically built with preposition errors from all previous modules.

Modal verb structures "could did", "could found", "had studying"	Class 13 - Reported speech with modals (will/would, can/could) Correct the Teacher - Classes 16, 17, 18, 19 Conversation correction - every class	Class 13 specifically practices modal shifts (will to would, can to could). Correct the Teacher stories include modal + base verb as deliberate errors to catch. When YOU say "could did" teacher must correct instantly: "No. Listen. Could DO."
Noun vs adjective confusion "be patience", "lost her afraid"	Module 11 Guide 1 - Class 17 (Noun-Adjective Pairs) Module 11 Guide 2 - Classes 17, 18 (prefixes/suffixes) Class 18 homework - 10 sentences with BOTH forms	Class 17 is built for YOUR error type. Module 11 Guide 1 teaches 15 noun-adjective pairs (patience/patient, bravery/brave, health/healthy). The Class 17 Correct the Teacher story has 12 errors all based on these exact pairs.
Persistent pattern recovery	Class 19 Mega Correct the Teacher 15 errors from ALL 12 B2 modules Project Workshop - Classes 13-18	Class 19 has a MEGA Correct the Teacher story covering errors from every B2 module. This is the diagnostic moment: which errors are still there? Project Workshop (20-25 min each class, 13-18) lets teacher read your writing and fix each pattern.

These activities are the plan for your remaining classes. If any of these activities is skipped, the errors above will continue. If they happen consistently, the errors will reduce — they already have in some areas (your participle use improved from B1 to B2 midterm).

YOUR SELF-ASSESSMENTS: WHAT THEY TELL US

Miguel, you completed 18 daily self-assessments between March and April. We appreciate your consistency. However, coordination has reviewed them carefully, and there are important observations:

1. Your commitments repeat without a clear plan.

Your "My Commitments" section shows the same goals appearing over and over:

Commitment	Appears in
"Practice my vocabulary"	Classes 4, 5, 6, 9, 14
"Improve my speaking"	Classes 7, 8, 12, 13
"Improve my listening"	Classes 7, 9, 12, 18
"Practice my grammar"	Classes 6, 13, 17
"Learn new words"	Classes 5, 8, 14

Writing "improve my speaking" is not a plan. A plan is: "This week I will record myself speaking for 2 minutes every night about my day, listen to it, and write down 3 errors I hear." The self-assessment is a tool for YOU to build a specific, actionable plan for improvement. If the commitment is vague, nothing changes.

2. You never expressed dissatisfaction in your self-assessments.

In 18 self-assessments, your "How do I feel about my progress?" responses were:

- "Today I learnt new words and I felt good" (Class 4)
- "Very good" (Classes 5, 6)
- "Very good, I improve my pronunciation" (Class 6)
- "Good" (Classes 7, 8, 10, 11, 12, 13)
- "Good, we did a debate and helped a person" (Class 9)
- "Good, we watched a movie and learnt more words" (Class 10)
- "Good, we did some activities" (Classes 14, 15)
- "Good, I practice for my presentation and we did a video" (Class 16)
- "Feel we did a debate and held to an person" (Class 9)

Not once did you write "I feel frustrated" or "I am not learning" or "I need something different." Every single self-assessment says "good" or "very good." If you felt that you were not learning, the self-assessment was the place to say it. It exists precisely for that purpose — to communicate how you feel so coordination can act on it. We cannot fix a problem we do not know about.

3. The self-assessment is a tool — use it.

Going forward, we need your self-assessments to be specific and honest:

- Instead of "good" — write WHAT was good and WHY.
- Instead of "practice my vocabulary" — write WHAT words, HOW you will practice, and WHEN.
- If you feel frustrated, WRITE IT. We will read it and act on it.
- If a class did not help you, WRITE IT. That is more valuable than "good."
